READ FUND PICNIC

Enjoyable Affair on the New Burr Playground at Newton

The Read Fund picnic was held last Saturday at the Burr Playground, Newton, under the auspices of the Newton Playground Department, and the five or six hundred children present had a most enjoyable day. The preliminaries of the sports were held in the forenoon and the finals in the first part of the afternoon.

In addition to the sports, there were pony and auto rides for the youngsters, Miss Baker, a ventriloquist gave an enjoyable entertainment and Mr. Yarrick gave a Punch and Judy show.

The feature of the afternoon, however, was an historical pageant, in pantomime and dance illustrating the settlement and growth of Newton for 300 years. The pageant was in five episodes the first showing the Indian chief Waban, watching the return of his tribe from a successful hunt. The second episode, showed John Eliot and the Puritans, the third, the entrance of rebellion, the attempt to drive the Puritans away and the spirit of Newton giving peace and quiet. In the fourth episode, Newton invites all nations to make their home here and in the fifth the spirit of play enters to give to all children the rights and joys of childhood.

Mary Stappen acted as the protagonist and introduced each episode. The following children took part in the pageant.

Chief Waban—William Duly.
John Eliot—Milford Scott, assisted by Jules Chisholm and John Doherty.
Puritans—Agnes Leonard, Catherine McLean, Florence Higgins, Mary Gallagher, Mary McLean, Agnes Wolfe, Helen Lucey, May Coleman, Hildred Thompkins.

Indians—Vincent Wolfe, Wallace Grooley, Francis Greeley, Frank McArdle, John Gallagher, Winton Arnold, Edmund Le Blanc, Paul Ross, Graham Scott, Charles Gallagher, Joseph Coleman, Arthur Marshall, Robert Stickel.

Rebellion was portrayed by Florence McEnroy, Mary Munhall, Anna Donovan, Mary Wolfe, Florence Stickel, Mabel Williamson, Edith Pearson, Ruth Pearson, Theresa McTague, Nora Kelly, Anna Gallagher.

Newton—Florence Doucet.

The earnings of banks are more than ever because of the high market rate of money, and with increased earnings should come increased interest payments to savings depositors.

One by one the banks are adopting our ideas. We were the first to pay interest monthly; others are now going to do the same thing. We were the first to increase the rate of interest dividends; others followed.

DEATH OF MRS. HARTFORD

Mrs. Mary C. Hartford, who died August 31 in the Waban section of Newton, where she had made her home with her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Winslow Blanchard, at 88 Pine Ridge road, was the widow of Thomas T. Hartford. Mrs. Hartford, who was ill for about two weeks, was born in Walpole seventy-five years ago and was the daughter of Augustus Richardson, a Boston lawyer, and Emeline Smith Richardson, the latter of Hardwick, Mass. Their parents were long in the Ashmont section of Dorchester, where their daughter was brought up. She was a student at the State Normal School in Framingham, in the early sixties, and while there was a classmate of Miss Hyde, who afterward was for many years principal of that school. Although she fitted herself for the work of instructing others, Miss Richardson never taught, as soon after his course at Framingham she married Thomas T. Hartford, and they then lived in Ashmont. Mr. Hartford died about four years ago, after which his widow went to Waban to live with her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Blanchard. The latter was before her marriage Miss Winona Hartford. In addition to this daughter, Mrs. Hartford leaves a son, Arthur F. Hartford of Wollaston, and there are three grandchildren.

Services were held at 88 Pine Ridge road, Thursday at 2.15, the Rev. Percival M. Lord, officiating. The burial was at Cedar Grove Cemetery, Boston.

TAPLEY-LYMAN

A wedding of interest in college circles, which took place on Wednesday afternoon of last week at the residence of the bride's aunt, Mrs. Charles H. Bennett, 921 Beacon street, Newton Centre, was that of Miss Mabel Sweet Lyman, Smith 1920, daughter of Clarence A. Lyman of Los Angeles, Calif., who was united in marriage to Gilbert Hutchinson Tapley, Dartmouth 1916, of Danvers. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Joseph Lyman of Sharon, uncle of the bride, in the presence of the immediate families. The best man was Donald Putnam Perry, Harvard, 1916, of Danvers, and the maid of honor was Miss Idella Lyman, Smith 1920, of Los Angeles, a sister of the bride. A reception will be held at the residence of the bridegroom's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Augustus Tapley, in Danvers, on Saturday evening, Sept. 11, from 8 to 10 o'clock. Mr. and Mrs. Tapley will make their home for the present near Hanover, N. H., where the bridegroom is secretary and instructor in the Tuck School of Dartmouth College.

The sign of a reliable dealer and the world's best Gasoline

Every motor highway and byway throughout picturesque New England and New York is a part of the long "Socony Trail".

The home of Longfellow, the most beloved of American poets, in Pittsfield, Mass.

PITTSFIELD is a favorite rendezvous for those motoring through the beautiful Berkshires. And, as in other similar meeting places throughout New England and New York, the familiar Socony signs of supreme motoring service are there.

The Standard Oil Company Of New York has grown hand in hand with the automobile industry. It has standardized gasoline quality, and by large-volume production has made it available everywhere.

Socony service has grown similarly with the needs of the automobile users of every community. It has not been content with merely supplying these needs but has usually anticipated them. For a decade, in city and country alike, the Standard Oil sign has been a symbol of dependable service and quality.

Socony gasoline is made and sold today under standard conditions. Every gallon is like every other gallon—as clean, quick-starting and full of power and mileage as the most modern refining methods can make it.

For complete, all-season motoring satisfaction, fill up regularly with Socony gasoline—you can get it everywhere.

Look for the red, white and blue

SUGGESTIONS TO WOMEN VOTERS

The election next Tuesday is a primary or preliminary election to select party candidates for state and county officers, to be voted for at the regular election on Nov. 2nd. It has nothing to do with the presidential election. Each person voting next Tuesday must declare himself or herself to be either a Republican or Democrat.

The bulk of the vote in Newton has heretofore been cast before 10 A. M. and while it is your privilege to vote at any time between 6 A. M. and 4.30 P. M., you will feel less hurried, if you can arrange to vote either after 10 o'clock in the morning or in the afternoon.

After entering the polling place, and BEFORE you pass inside the rail, take the time to look at the voting list of that particular precinct, and at the sample ballots which will be posted on the wall. The voting list, to see that you are in the right voting precinct and are correctly listed, and the sample ballot, in order that you may decide definitely just how you will vote. You may take as much time as you please for this purpose OUTSIDE the rail.

Having made up your mind how you will vote, step up to the tally clerk, and give him your street, number of street and your own name, in this order and something like this, "Washington St., No. 900, Mary Brown, Republican" (Do not say "Mrs. John Brown")

Receiving your ballot go to one of the booths and mark an "X" in the square opposite the names of each candidate for whom you wish to vote. Make no other marks on the ballot. The "X" is what counts.

Talking is not allowed INSIDE the rail.

Refold your ballot and go to the ballot box where you should repeat your street, number and name, after which you can deposit your ballot in the box and leave the enclosure.

NEWTON FREE LIBRARY

American Poetic Drama

"To-day the play is astonishingly popular. The commercial theatres flourish as never before. The experimental theatres pursue their activities with the devoted fervor of the intelligent amateur. Almost without exception every college and university has a well established dramatic department. The casual reader is very apt to choose nowadays a play rather than a novel for the passing hour.

The revival of poetry in America which began about the year 1900, says the Poetry Society of America, has been not only in the sphere of lyric and narrative poetry, but also in the field of poetry drama, where some excellent and distinguished work has been done."

The Poetry Society hitherto has not included poetic drama in its annual suggested booklists. Now, however, through a special drama committee, it has prepared the following initial list of twentieth century American poetic plays.

EDITORIAL

As the object of attack in one of the most scurrilous, false and misleading political circulars ever seen in Newton politics, it may not be unbecoming for me to say for the enlightenment of the many new voters in this city, that most of the acts attributed to me are absolutely false and the grain of truth in the remainder has been so distorted as to give an entirely different impression of the real facts.

The same thing is true in regard to the statements of my actions as a representative from Newton at the last Legislature.

I assisted in drafting and voted for a maternity benefit bill, limiting the expense to the state to $200,000. A measure which met with the entire approval of Gov. Coolidge. I voted against the so called Spencer and Young bills which would have cost millions of dollars.

The recess committee on consolidation of the statutes was recognized by the Constitutional Convention, was recommended by Gov. Coolidge, and two of the best committees of the Legislature and was opposed on its final passage by only 15 members of the House. In the debate on this measure, I voted for an amendment to reduce the compensation of the members of this committee to a more reasonable figure than $1000 each. It is needless to say that as a first year member of the House I had no expectation of even being considered as a possible member of that committee and made no effort in that direction.

Mr. Thomas F. Green, whose name is attached to the circular in question, informed me last night by telephone that he had no idea that his name was to be used in any such manner and he repudiated the entire circular and expressed regret for his connection with it.

Vote Next Tuesday for Clean and Decent Politics.

J. C. BRIMBLECOM.

The state primary next Tuesday will have two interesting features, the advent of the women as voters and the fight against the renomination of Fred J. Burrell as state treasurer.

Elsewhere in this issue, we have ventured to make a few suggestions to the women voters, which we hope will be received in the spirit of helpfulness in which they are made.

There are several interesting contests for the various Republican nominations, in addition to that for state treasurer.

The first on the ticket is that for lieutenant-governor for which there are four candidates. We believe that the real fight here, is between Mr. Langtry and Mr. Warner. As both are personal friends of the editor, and as both are gentlemen of about equal ability, we do not care to take issue between them.

For secretary of the Commonwealth there are five candidates, of whom Mr. Fred W. Cook, city clerk of Somerville is so much better qualified for the office that there ought to be no question as to his nomination.

For Congressman, Mr. Robert Luce deserves and should receive the endorsement of a community like Newton. His opponent has but one issue—he is very "wet." Let us keep the 13th district "dry."

For Councillor, there are five candidates, and either Smith or Lewis would undoubtedly fill this honorary office with credit to the district. Per-

A REPUBLICAN LEADER IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES 1904-05-06

In 1905 Mr. McManus planned and led the fight that united the Republican and Democratic members of the Legislature so that the veto of Gov. Douglass on Natick Town-Hall Bill was overwhelmingly defeated. His victory on that bill did more to retire Gov. Douglass from politics and pave the way for the election of late Curtis Guild as Governor for 1906 than any other one thing.

GOVERNOR'S COUNCIL

AT TUESDAY'S REPUBLICAN PRIMARIES

Eames' opponents say he voted to increase the salaries of the Legislature. He did. He believes the representatives of the people should be paid a reasonable salary by the State and not by the lobbyists and interests. The Legislature overwhelmingly passed that bill. Eames also voted for the 48-hour bill, two-platoon system, weavers' bill and all other humanitarian measures. His opponent voted against these bills. Eames is his own master. He acts for the people of his district and not for the Boston machine.

THE COPLEY THEATRE—The next play of Henry Jewett's fifth season at the Copley Theatre will be W. Somerset Maugham's "Caroline," this being the first opportunity for Bostonians to see a play described as "the finest light comedy that the American stage has known in many years." In "Caroline" Mr. Maugham reveals the ingenuity and skill that he has shown in many other plays and also in several novels. Its plot recounts the adventures of Caroline Ashley, who after ten years of dwelling apart from an impossible husband, suddenly finds herself a widow. Whereupon ensues a series of interesting episodes in her life due to the admiration for her of a man who has been all the time looking for her release from the marriage bonds, and expecting that when the time came there would be nothing to interfere with their marriage. But he reckons without the caprices of changeable woman. But once free, Caroline asks herself why she should be again in bondage, and by means of brilliant dialogue and logical sequence of events the dramatist enables the audience to watch the progress of one of the liveliest comedies ever put upon the stage.

NEWTON MAN APPOINTED

Governor Coolidge has appointed Mr. Carl A. Barrett of Homer street, Newton Centre, a member of the new Boxing Commission of the State. Mr. Barrett is a trained newspaper man of wide sporting experience. He was born in Claremont, N. H., Dec. 20, 1883. He attended the public schools in Melrose, the old Prince School of Boston and the Stoneham High School. While at the latter school he was identified with almost all the sport teams and was for two years captain of the football eleven. In his second year as captain the team was not scored upon.

Mr. Barrett entered Norwich University, Northfield, Vt., in the class of '06. He played on the football eleven and was on the basketball squad. He organized a hockey team and was its manager.

After two years at Norwich Mr. Barrett came to Boston and started as a reporter on the Boston Evening Record. Later he was for six years sporting editor and a well-known baseball writer. He was also assistant city editor, news editor and managing editor and is now the treasurer of the Record.

POLITICAL NOTES

Mr. Ernest Cobb of Richardson road has been named by the Single Tax Party as a presidential elector. Mr. Cobb is also a candidate for delegate to the Republican state convention. Some explanation is evidently needed.

Mr. Robert B. Capon of Channing road, Newton Centre, has been selected as the nominee for secretary of state by the Single Tax party.

Ex-representative Leland Powers, who has been assistant attorney general of the Commonwealth for the past year or more has resigned to devote his entire time to his law practice.

Capt. C. Sinclair Weeks of West Newton has been elected a member of the executive committee of the Roosevelt Club.

LARGE VOTE AT PRIMARY

Many Women Cast Their First Ballot. Fuller, Cook, Smith, Naphen, Rice, Early and Forknall Among the Winners.

The largest primary ever held in this city took place on Tuesday when 4288 men and women cast their ballots for Republican and Democratic candidates for office, 4108 being Republican and 180 Democratic.

There was considerable interest taken in the advent of the woman voter and out of about 2800 registered over 1400 cast their ballots Tuesday. About 2700 men voted out of a registration of over 8600. There was little or no confusion, the women voting about as fast as the men, altho they were inclined to talk with each other while marking their ballots and had to be stopped by the wardens.

The women were early at the polls, a woman receiving the first ballot in ward 3 but took so long marking it that she was second at the ballot box. In ward 2 a woman received and cast the first vote, while in precinct 2 of ward 1 Miss Louise Moore of Church street has the honor of casting the first woman's vote in that precinct.

The results of the election were quite surprising in some ways. For Lieutenant Governor, Fuller carried the city with Warner, who was supposed to be the most formidable candidate running third, Burrill being second and Langtry a poor fourth, the totals being, Fuller 1170, Burrill 1106, Warner 1062, Langtry 532.

For secretary, Cook led with 1029 votes, George had 829, Bean 768, Wood 756, and Harris 270.

For treasurer, the sticker campaign for James Jackson was a great success, the vote being Jackson 3486, Burrill, 295.

For auditor, Cook had 2924 and Babb, 787.

For Congressman, Mr. Luce received a splendid endorsement with 3413 votes to 261 for Murphy.

For Councillor, Smith swept the city having 2259, Adams 436, Eames 380, Berry 243, and Lewis 171.

For senator, Naphen had 1515, carrying all but two precincts, Wood had 1289 and McManus 854.

For Representatives, Rice and Early were re-nominated with 3215 and 2874 votes respectively, for third place, Forknall won out with 2386 to 2037 for Representative Brimblecom. Forknall's fight, according to an eleventh hour political circular was made against Brimblecom, and Forknall carried all but three precincts of the city, his victory being undoubtedly due to the effect of this canard.

For county commissioners, Cutting and Wardwell, the present Commissioners had 2804 and 2244 respectively, Colburn 1025 and Goodwin 424.

The unopposed candidates were Channing Cox for governor with 3675 votes, J. Weston Allen for attorney general with 3763 votes and John R. Fairbairn for sheriff with 3562.

The detailed vote by precincts of the more interesting contests will be found on page 2.

Edward E. Clark of Framingham was elected a member of the Republican state committee and the following delegates and members of the city committee were elected in each ward.

Ward 1: Reuben Forknall, Fred W. Stone, Ralph F. Barber.

Ward 2: Harry D. Cabot, Albert M. Lyon, Fred E. Mann, W. Lloyd Allen, Albert P. Carter, F. Clifton Bassett, Wm. B. Arnold.

This will be reported at the meeting Friday evening.

GARDEN NEWS

Squash Vine Borers

Squash vine borers have been unusually prevalent this year and they, along with the dry weather are going to make the regular crop of winter squash almost a failure. Much, if not all of this vine borer damage could have been done away with by covering the vines at the large nodes as suggested in a previous story.

Cucumber Wilt

Cucumber vines have been dying badly this year, not only from blight, but from what is known as wilt. Wilt is a bacterial disease which enters the vines through punctures made by insects, the insects therefore have caused the greater share of the trouble. Spraying with arsenical poisons would have killed all the insects and the use of Bordeaux in these sprays would have controlled some of the bacterial wilt.

Storage of Vegetables

The season is rapidly approaching when we must consider the storage of our garden vegetables. The type and method of storage will depend almost entirely upon the quantity and particular vegetable to be stored. Most home gardeners growing any appreciable quantity of vegetables should have a storage in their home cellar. This should consist of a room partitioned in one corner of the cellar. A room need not be partitioned where there is no artificial heat in the cellar and where the cellar is damp. Most home cellars now have heating apparatus, therefore it is desirable to have one corner set aside as a storage location. The partitions can be easily made of 2x3 or 2x4-inch lumber, papered and sheathed on both sides. If possible, the room should be located in a corner of the cellar where access can be had to a cellar window. The center light of the window should be removed and a wooden flue built from the lower half of the window right down to within 6 inches of the cellar bottom. This is to let in to the bottom of the storage room, cool air. A damper, of course, should be placed in this cold-air flue. The upper half of the window light should be closed with a trap door which can be easily opened and shut. This is to be used as an outlet for the warm air. With the damper in the cold air flue and this warm air outlet it is easy to regulate the temperature in the storage room. During the fall they can be opened up in the evening and the cold, damp air permitted to enter during the night and the damper closed up in the morning, keeping the warm air out and holding the cold, damp air in. Shelves and bins can be built in this storage room in which are placed the vegetables or fruits.

If one has a large quantity of root crops and does not care to store them in the cellar, they may be stored in so-called pits outdoors in the garden or by the house. Beets, carrots, turnips are placed in bins and covered with straw, leaves or other litter, upon which is placed a layer of dirt, over which is placed more litter. These pits should not be made until danger of heavy frosts, beats for instance should not be frozen badly out of doors. Parsnips and salsify are better if they have been frozen, therefore the common practice is to permit them to freeze out of doors and bring them into the cellar frozen, or cover them in pits while they are frozen.

This means, of course, digging them before the ground freezes and leaving them in a pile outside so that they can freeze.

Clean Up Gardens

As the crops mature and are harvested, the litter should be cleaned up. Any litter such as corn stalks, bean plants, squash vines, tomato vines and the like large enough for corn borers to enter should be collected, permitted to dry and then be burnt. Anything in which the borer cannot enter should be spaded under in order to furnish humus to the soil. An earlier article suggested that seed rye should be sown upon all bare ground as soon as crops are harvested.

This Is the Last of This Season's Garden Articles

This is the last article which will appear this season on home gardening. Any home gardeners or others who have been reading the articles from time to time and who have other questions on any phase of storage or home garden work, should write to the Middlesex County Bureau of Agriculture and Home Economics, 7 Moody street, Waltham, Mass.

TECHNICAL HIGH SCHOOL

More than six hundred pupils have registered for the commercial classes in the Technical high school and the total enrollment will probably be considerably greater than in any previous year.

Twenty-five high school and college graduates have registered for the postgraduate class in secretarial studies. In this class the pupils spend four hours each day in the study of shorthand and typewriting, completing the course in about seven months. This course was introduced two years ago in order to help meet the demand for well-trained women for business positions. In view of the many calls for its graduates, it has seemed advisable to offer the course again this year.

A MIGHTY DIFFERENCE

There is a mighty difference in the measure of culpability of a cheap, sharp little ward politician attempting to mislead the public by distortion and misrepresentation and a like distortion and misrepresentation by a Presidential candidate.

No one places any confidence in the professional ward politician. He may do or say anything to carry a point and little importance attaches to it. The reason is that men do not look in his direction for character, and startling utterances, without character do not make a ripple in the community.

But the Presidential candidate, the actual nominee of a great party, stands out with us as a great figure, a man of rock-ribbed character, a man of superb dignity, to whom little acts, small petty acts, the acts of the sharp little ward politician in matters political, would be abhorrent and impossible.

Because of this ideal of the man selected by his party for the first office in the land, because of this ideal which mirrors the composite of our Presidents from Washington to Wilson, it is shocking to see Mr. Cox descend to demagogic levels in his fight for election.

In what he has said of Republican campaign funds the brazen, blatant way he has said it has written him down as a person wholly unfit to be President of these United States; has written him down as a man ready to delude and mislead that he may gain advantage over his opponent in the Presidential race; has written him down as indifferent to the facts and to the verities of the situation; has written him down as a sharp little man without bigness of soul, bigness of vision or appreciation of the great role he is playing as the nominee of a great political party for President of the United States.

The facts as disclosed before the Kenyon campaign committee annihilate the Cox charges of the Republican corruption fund; the facts show that the money so far received by the Republican campaign committee is only a trifle over a million dollars; and getting it in small contributions, as Mr. Hays hopes to do, is not big with promise for even the necessary amount to run a national political campaign.

No one knows better the falsity of the "slush fund" charges he has been making than Governor Cox himself; no one knows better than he that the quota figures of the drive artist mean little in truth; no one knows better than he, a shrewd business man, that it isn't within the bounds of possibility to raise fifteen millions of dollars in small contributions for campaign purposes; no one knows better than he that the attitude of the whole country in the matter of campaign contributions for both parties has always been "Let New York Pay"; and knowing this his slush fund accusations were downright dishonest.

HAS SOME FRIENDS LEFT

Representative Brimblecom has received many condolences on his defeat for re-nomination last Tuesday, including the following letter from a former ex-mayor.

"I am dumbfounded at your defeat and wish you to know my sympathy and chagrin that the members of the party in Newton should allow themselves to be swayed in their judgment by such false representations of your character and capacity for the office for which you had earned reelection so deservedly."

BOY SCOUTS

The treck-cart which is being made by the troop will probably be ready for the Rally which will be held early in October. This is something entirely new in design and is what is very much needed in this vicinity, that is a cart which can be taken apart easily and still will carry a very heavy load.

Meetings have been held all through the summer and certain of the scouts have been very faithful. Several hikes have been made for the benefit of those scouts who were not away at summer camps or resorts and although the attendance has been comparatively small, those who did come generally enjoyed themselves.

The meeting Friday night will be somewhat informal and all friends of the troop are invited to attend.

EDITORIAL

I am grateful to the 2037 men and women of this city, who, in spite of an eleven-hour political canard, had confidence enough in me to support my candidacy for re-nomination as a Republican representative from Newton at the primary election on Tuesday.

J. C. Brimblecom.

Petitions are in circulation by friends of the firemen asking that another referendum on the two platoon system for the Fire Dept. be held at the coming election. We also understand that another set of petitions is also in circulation asking the aldermen to grant the two platoon system. The present statutes allow the two platoon system to be granted directly by the city government, and also allow a referendum to the people, which if approved by a majority vote, becomes binding on the city, without further action by the aldermen. Of these two plans, we hope the people of Newton will approve the aldermanic method and oppose the referendum to the electorate. If the two platoon system is acted upon favorably by the aldermen, all the incidental matters connected with the main question can be adjusted in a satisfactory manner, something which is not possible under the referendum, where the statutory provisions will immediately apply.

The GRAPHIC heartily approves of the two platoon system, provided it is installed with due regard for other expenses and departments of the city. The fire and police departments should be treated exactly alike and there is no more reason for requiring 21 hours of continuous service from a fireman than from a policeman. Moreover it is high time we recognized the fact that a modern fire department is entirely different from the old fashioned hand engine and that because men were willing and anxious to sleep in the fire house in the olden days and run with the machine, is no reason why they should be compelled to give practically a 24 hour day in the year 1920. The fact that the men perform comparatively little active service during the course of a year is balanced by the fact that they stand ready to give that service at any and all times and their hours and compensation should be based on the preparedness to serve as well as upon their ability to serve.

The editor of the GRAPHIC has purposely delayed publishing this editorial until after the state primary in order that no suspicion could be raised that he was endeavoring to curry favor with the firemen and their friends.

In an open letter to Newton citizens, Mr. Reuben Forknall, who won one of the Republican nominations for Representative at the primary on Tuesday states, that "I am in no way responsible either by inspiring, suggestion of in the writing, printing or circulation" of the "Green" letter. Mr. Forknall has also in private conversation characterized that letter as "a wicked thing" and "a wicked shame". No man with any claim to decency would accept a nomination secured under such circumstances, and Mr. Forknall can best show his sincerity by withdrawing from the party nomination, and, on independent nomination papers, allow the voters of Newton to choose again between him and Representative Brimblecom on equal terms at the November election.

The Editor is taking some comfort from the fact that after living in this city over 45 years and publishing a local paper for twenty years, his political opponents were only able to discover five possible charges against him (and all of them were either false or misrepresented). Our unknown biographer also omitted one fact which might have made at least ten more votes for Mr. Forknall—when ten years old, we got into a street fight and went home with a black eye.

The advent of the women as voters make it more necessary than ever for the Republican managers to have sufficient funds to provide for strictly legitimate election expenses. Every Republican interested in the success of the party next November should see to it that his contribution is made as soon as possible to his local ward chairman.

POLITICAL NOTES

Representative William J. Naphen of Natick, who led the poll in this city for the Republican nomination for senator in this district, also led in the entire district, the total vote being Naphen, 2591; Wood, 2519; McManus, 1746. Mr. Naphen carried Newton, Natick and Weston and Mr. Wood carried Framingham, Ashland, Hopkinton, Holliston and Sherborn.

DEATH OF MRS. LOTHROP

Mrs. Alice L. (Higgins) Lothrop, the wife of Mr. William H. Lothrop died last week Thursday at her home on Central avenue, Newtonville.

Mrs. Lothrop, better known by her maiden name, who had attained a Nation-wide reputation among social workers for efficiency as an executive at times of great disasters, had been suffering for about a month with an obscure disease akin to "sleeping sickness." She was in a coma for 25 days, partly awaking only for a few brief intervals to take nourishment. Her case had aroused great interest among the specialists who were called in.

Alice Louise (Higgins) Lothrop was born in Boston, March 28, 1870, and was the daughter of Albert H. and Addie A. Higgins.

Her education was in Boston private schools, and in 1898 she went into the office of the Associated Charities here for training to be a worker in that society's field. After this she spent one Summer, in 1902, in the New York School of Philanthropy, and then became general secretary of the Associated Charities, holding that position until her marriage in May, 1913, to William H. Lothrop.

Miss Higgins won great prominence by her handling of the relief work after the San Francisco fire in 1906. She went in the Boston relief train, and handled the business of distributing the relief in masterly fashion.

She had already won her spurs during the coal famine of 1902 and 1903, and had attained a high standing as a public speaker, more especially by her work before committees of the Legislature, toward making hobnobbing less attractive and non-support less easy.

In 1908 she took charge of the relief work in Chelsea, following the great fire, and worked night and day for three weeks, until utterly worn out. Her capacity for hard work was phenomenal.

Again, at the time of the Salem fire, she was in the forefront of the relief work.

Her advice was sought and taken in arranging the relief train that went to Halifax from Boston after the great explosion.

Since her marriage Mrs. Lothrop has been a director of the Associated Charities of Boston and has done an immense amount of work in that position.

During the war, she had charge of the New England civilian relief work for the Red Cross, and was very active in that also. She was chairman of the American Association for Organizing of which the Boston Associated Charities is a member, and the National organization has grown remarkably since she undertook its conduct.

Mrs. Lothrop, as head of the Home Service Department of the Red Cross in New England, did an important bit of work in connection with the Halifax disaster in the Winter of 1917. She aided James Jackson, manager of the New England Division of the Red Cross, in getting together a relief unit and supplies, and a committee, of which John F. Moors and Miss McMahon were the leaders, that helped materially to put into operation a special plan of relief in the stricken city.

Mrs. Lothrop was devoted to her husband and among her many outside activities, never neglected her home.

Services were held in the Immanuel Baptist Church, Newton, Sunday afternoon, Rev. Samuel McChord Crothers, D.D., of Cambridge officiating. The pall bearers were Mr. Jeffrey R. Brackett of Boston, Mr. Allston Burr of Chestnut Hill, Mr. Robert W. Kelso and Mr. Stockton Raymond of Boston. The burial was in Newton Cemetery.

MRS. WILLIAM H. LOTHROP

All humanitarian Boston will mourn the loss of Mrs. William H. Lothrop. For many years, as Miss Alice Higgins, she was the leading spirit of the Associated Charities and her brilliant intellect and unerring judgment made her a national figure in social service matters. In 1917 she became the head of the home service department of the Red Cross for New England. She gave of her great organizing ability and strength without stint to this work and the results she achieved in building this department, from the beginning were remarkable. During the last four years the debt that the Boston Metropolitan Chapter of the Red Cross owes to Mrs. Lothrop's ability and the sympathy that made her understand all things cannot be measured. The rapidity of her thought, the scintillating charm of its expression, her fearlessness, her tact, her all-comprehensive sense of humor, her persuasiveness, her justice, and the clearness of her grasp of essentials, gave her a power for constructive good that was a delight and an inspiration to all who knew her. Withal she was so human, so full of the joy of life, loving nature, books and people, but with the discrimination and understanding that her wonderful qualities made inevitable. Taken from us in the fullness and perfection of her powers she leaves the hearts of those who knew her sore indeed. How true it was that "Age cannot wither her, nor custom stale her infinite variety."—Allston Burr.

GAVE NEW IDEA TO WORLD

Architect Admits He Owe to Lucky Dream Structural Scheme Which Makes Him Famous.

When the new three-story Bahai temple, which is to cost several million dollars, is erected in Chicago, a dream that Louis Bourgeois of New York city struggled with for 12 years to put into plans and designs will have materialized.

More than 25 years ago Bourgeois sat on the sea shore one night tracing out lines he found in the study of the movement of the stars. A wave rushed in over his markings on the sands, and they were lost. Just 12 years ago he heard of the competition for the Bahai temple. He mortgaged his home, and bought a small confectionery store which his wife, an artist, ran while he worked. Baha 'O 'Iah, founder of Bahalism, had adopted nine as the symbolic number of his religious movement, and said his temples should have nine sides, with as many equal gates for the nine great world religions he wished to unite in one temple.

Bourgeois sketched the idea; but he had to put it in plaster, as he did not know how to carve. So one Sunday a friend taught him. And then he carved the three stories one by one, designing the second only after the first was completed, and the third only when details of the second were final. His model took first prize. And it is probable that Abul Bahai, present pontiff of Bahalism, will come to Chicago to live.

BEST FORM OF WIND MOTOR

Machine That Will Work in Perfect Calm Is Recent Invention of a Swedish Manufacturer.

For decades attempts at constructing a wind motor that works so steadily as to be used profitably for generating electricity failed because wind motor and generator were directly connected by a rod, and the quantity of electric current was in direct proportion to the power developed by the motor.

A Stockholm (Sweden) manufacturer succeeded recently in constructing a satisfactory wind motor. While the wind is strong only part of the motor's power is utilized to drive the generator, while the surplus power lifts a heavy weight attached to an endless chain. When the wind is not strong enough to furnish sufficient motor power, or ceases wholly, the generator is kept in motion by the force of the slowly falling weight.

The famous Swedish engineer, Jansson, figures that the generator is kept working at full capacity even if absolute calm prevails for three days.

Improved Aluminum.

A curious new form of aluminum has been attracting attention in France. When the pure metal is heated in a vacuum, 97 per cent of it is slowly volatilized in 73 hours at about 1,100 degrees Centigrade; and the whole is volatilized in 30 hours at 1,200 degrees Centigrade. A small portion always proves less volatile than the rest. Quite often a kind of fractional distillation yields an aluminum residue that has increased affinity for oxygen, and within a month this is completely changed into a bulky grayish-white mixture of alumina and aluminum. One suggestion is that impurities of iron or silicon impart this peculiarity. But analysis shows only four per cent of iron and five per cent of silicon, and the form of metal so readily oxidized proves, therefore, to be purer than the aluminum used for kitchen utensils and various other purposes with no tendency to become oxidized. It is concluded that the easily oxidized metal is an allotropic form of aluminum.

Prepared for Tourists.

Tourists flocking to the war zone are finding novel hotel arrangements and conditions more comfortable than expected in view of the fact that hardly a hotel was left habitable when the Germans retreated eighteen months ago. The latest innovation of French tourist agencies is a hotel opened in Arras, where a series of ordinary railroad coaches are arranged in a square with a tent roof over the center, forming reception and dining rooms. The Arras train hotels have eighty rooms, each coach providing four compartments large enough to accommodate the most fastidious customers. Bungalow hotels are being erected, especially in the Argonne, where the shell-torn trees are being razed to provide timber for Canadian style cottages.

Forgotten Distances.

Americans who have forgotten the geography lessons of their school days will be surprised by statements made in an article on Chinese trade published in Shipping. Manila, it says, which is an American insular possession, is closer to China than is Tokyo, the capital of Japan. The Alaskan coast is within 50 miles of Siberia. Therefore, the article concludes, it would seem that America should be more interested in Asiatic than in European trade.—From the Outlook.

New Idea for Garage.

The newest public garage has a feature saving the automobile owner a lot of annoyance which he invariably experiences in getting his car into a space assigned to him at a public garage. The new idea is to run it on a transfer truck which carries the car to the desired place and the automobile is run off the track into its place. This arrangement also conserves floor space.

THE COPLLEY THEATRE

The next play at the Copley Theatre will be another of Shaw's masterly comedies, "Major Barbara." It is one of his more recent plays, and is a product of the period of his professional activity when he had outgrown the habit of labelling them either "pleasant" or "unpleasant." It is, in emphasis and its general proportions, not unlike "The Doctor's Dilemma." The plot involves the Undershawes, who are the Krumps of England, and their social and business activities. It will be staged under Mr. Jewett's personal direction and the cast will include the entire company with three new members, Robert Noble, Charles Warburton and Ingrid Warburton.

BIG IMPORTANCE OF HOME CANNING

Don't Neglect Home Canning—Let the Children Help.

Home canning—of utmost importance during the war—will be just as important this year, according to present indications as they are viewed by the United States department of agriculture. The shortage of labor on the farms makes it necessary for the canneries to pay high prices for the commodities that will be canned later in the season. Labor in the canning factories is expensive and difficult to obtain. Everything, from cans to cartage costs, has increased in price, and transportation is slow and more expensive than it was in war times. All this increase must be paid by the ultimate consumer; and there is not even assurance that there will be enough canned products to go around. The solution is home canning.

Can Without Sugar.

That sugar is higher in price than it has been hitherto is advanced by some as a reason for canning either less fruit or nothing but vegetables; but unless one intends to give up sweets altogether there seems no good reason for not using canned fruit on account of high-priced sugar. There are few desserts that do not take from one-half to one cupful of sugar, and no dessert is more healthful than fruit. It is not necessary to use such thick sirup as was used in the days of plenty. A ten per cent sirup made of one part sugar to nine parts water will make palatable any of the acid fruits. Such fruits as apples, pineapples and the like can be canned without sugar. In fact, ordinary glucose or corn sirup may be substituted for sugar in making the sirup. A palatable sirup is made by mixing one-half cupful sugar, one cupful glucose and eight cupfuls of water.

It requires about seven ounces of sugar for a pint jar. One cupful of sugar will make ten cupfuls of sirup. A pound of sugar will make 20 cupfuls. This last amount will be sufficient for 20 pints of canned fruit. Where the 10 per cent sirup is used the cost of sugar to can a pint jar is one and one-half cents with sugar at 30 cents a pound. It is not so expensive after all.

SIRUPS SAVE SUGAR IN MAKING JELLIES
 Directions Given by Department of Agriculture Experts.

 When Fruit Is Cheap and Sugar Expensive
 Jellies May Be Made to Advantage With One-Half Usual
 Amount of Sweetening.

To obtain the largest possible amount of jelly from fruit with the use of the smallest possible amount of sugar, follow the directions given below by United States department of agriculture specialists:

If a good jelly-making fruit, such as quince, green grapes, tart and partly ripe apples, Siberian crab, or cranberries, is being used, make a second extraction from the fruit. That is, take the pulp from the jelly bag, add one cupful of water to each pound of pulp, cook 20 minutes, and drip a second time, using some pressure at the last. Second-extraction jellies are likely to be somewhat different in flavor from the first, and it is an excellent plan to combine the two jellies before sweetening.

When fruit is cheap and sugar expensive, jellies may be made to advantage with one-half as much sweetening as usual, that is, with one-half cupful of sugar to one cupful of juice. The yield of jelly will be less, for one cupful of a good juice plus one cupful of sugar should make between one and one and one-half cupfuls of jelly, whereas one-half cupful of sugar plus one cupful of juice makes between one-half cupful and three-fourths cupful of jelly.

One-half of the sweetening may be glucose sirup, light-colored corn sirup, honey or sorghum sirup. If the other half is granulated sugar, there will be little noticeable difference in sweetness in most cases. Grape with glucose or corn sirup will make a good jelly even when no sugar is used.

BIG ESSENTIALS IN CANNING
 Among Other Things Necessary Are Fresh Products, Pure Water and Cleanliness.

The essentials in canning fruit and vegetables are these:

Fresh products, pure water, care, cleanliness, good jars, "live," standard rubber rings and sufficient heat to process the products thoroughly in the closed container.

CLEANING CARPETS AND RUGS
 Vacuum Cleaner Operated by Hand or Electricity Removes Practically All Dirt.

A carpet sweeper or a vacuum cleaner should be used in the daily cleaning of the carpets and rugs. A vacuum cleaner operated by hand or electric power removes practically all the dust and dirt from carpets and rugs in a dustless manner.

SPOILAGE OF BREAD PREVENTED BY CARE
 Cover Lightly to Keep Out Germs and Dust.

 When Cold It Should Be Placed in Close Receptacle That Has Been Thoroughly Aired—Food Is Easily Contaminated.

While cooling, newly baked bread should be lightly covered with a clean cloth or paper to prevent mold germs and dust from falling upon it, but should not be tightly wrapped in a thick cloth, as is the practice in some households, for unless it is aired, when taken from an oven, it is likely to become "soggy" and damp, and thus offer an excellent medium for cultivation of molds, say food specialists of the United States department of agriculture. When cold the bread should be placed in a close receptacle that has been thoroughly scalded and aired. If bread is to be kept for more than two or three days in damp, hot weather, the jar or box should be taken out and sunned for a short time now and then, and again scalded and dried. On no account should portions of a former baking be stored with a new batch.

Cake and cookies should be cooled after making and kept in tin boxes or in earthenware jars, which, like bread boxes, should be scalded and aired often. Even if these foods are to be eaten at the next meal, it is well to keep them in some such receptacle, as it insures protection from dust. A cake, pudding, or pie that has been left cool unprotected from dust or flies is something that no careful housewife would place on her table, if she stopped to think how easily the food may be contaminated.

Household
Questions

 Wash the flatirons in soda and water before heating.

Japanese flower baskets are decorative for standing plants or to use in hanging basket fashion.

A blue denim cover to fasten over an ironing board saves the white cover and is good to use when pressing suits.

When making cake add two table-spoons of boiling water to the butter and sugar mixture. This plan secures a fine-grained cake with less labor and in no way interferes with the usual recipe.

In sewing white silk blouses by machine, place a piece of white paper under the material. If this is done the silk doesn't pucker or draw up and the paper is easily removed when the work is finished.

GARDEN NEWS

Shall we dig our potatoes now is a question frequently asked by home gardeners because their vines have died. The answer to this question all depends upon whether or not the vines died from blight. In case they have been injured and killed by one of the blights, it most assuredly is good business to dig the potatoes immediately and use them right away. They will not keep much better dug than they would if permitted to remain in the soil. If on the other hand the vines have been killed by leaf hoppers, flea beetles or potato aphids, the potato will keep for some time as well in the soil as they would if dug. If the home gardener therefore feels that the potato vines died because of aphids, which seems to be the trouble in most cases, the thing to do is to permit them to remain in the soil for a while longer unless the soil is wet. All potatoes in wet low land should be dug as soon as the tops die.

Tomato Worms

Large, plump, long, green caterpillars are found upon tomato vines at this time devouring the foliage. This tomato worm seldom appears in large numbers, and is not particularly dangerous. It does no good, however, and had better be killed. The caterpillar usually clings underneath the middle rib of the leaf and feeds upon either side. Because of its color and the fact that it clings to the under side of the leaf rib it is hard to discover, except that the foliage will usually be eaten in the section in which it is at work. The best way of handling these fellows is to hunt up the individuals, pick them off, and step upon them or kill them in some other way.

Tomato fruit worms were common last season, but do not appear to be bad this year. The tomato fruit worm attacks only the ripened fruit by eating into it. This caterpillar is about 2 inches in length and is generally of a brownish gray color.

Insect and Disease

The season has arrived when the larger share of insect trouble is over. One must not let up, however, with his Bordeaux spraying. Bordeaux should be sprayed upon potato foliage, tomato vines, cucumbers and mush melons in order to keep out blight. This should be kept up until there is danger of frost. If one is growing celery it will be well to spray it also with Bordeaux.

Keep Weeds Out of Garden

There are lots of fine home gardens that are becoming quite weedy. One will lose the value of all his early work if these few late weeds are permitted to ripen the seed. Each weed plant will produce thousands of seeds. It is well to go through the garden and pull or hoe the stray weeds.

Bean Weevils

As suggested last week, bean weevils are easily controlled. They cannot, however, be controlled in the field. They breed successfully in dried seed, and it is therefore advisable to harvest the crop and fumigate the same with carbon bisulphide. The bean should be placed in a tight box or can, like a wash boiler or barrel. The carbon bisulphide should be placed in a small dish set upon the top of the beans. The box or can or barrel is then closed tightly and contents permitted to remain for 24 hours. The material should be used at the rate of 1 teaspoonful to each cubic foot in the container in which the beans are being fumigated. This carbon bisulphide can be purchased at any drug store and comes in the nature of a liquid in a sealed can. It is highly poisonous and very inflammable. Therefore it must be used with great care. The one using it should not do it in a room where there is a fire or gas being used. It is well to place the container upon the back porch or in the shed so that if some fumes escape they will do no damage. The liquid poison quickly changes to gas which is heavier than air. It therefore works its way down through the beans killing all forms of animal life with which it comes in contact. Beans fumigated in this manner should be free from weevils.

CORRESPONDENCE

The school vacation season, now drawing to a close, has revealed a situation which, as it seems to me, calls for attention and correction. I refer to the habit of children of school age, of "hanging around" Newton Station or playing near or on the railroad tracks. This habit is dangerous to the children themselves, as well as being a source of annoyance to patrons of the road and others having lawful business on railroad premises.

The railroads in this country have spent large sums on "safety first" campaigns and other activities calculated to protect children from their own folly or waywardness, as the case may be. They have also warned the general public against using their property as thoroughfares. From my own experience of many years, I can say that inexperienced persons of any age should not fool around railroad property. Accustomed as I am to work which requires my presence on or near railroad tracks, I never "take any chances," but always "play safe." On the other hand, I have seen persons who know nothing about railroads whenever they get a chance to approach railroad property.

To a man who "knows what he is about," there is nothing particularly dangerous on a railroad. It is the adult or child who just "fools around," who is exposed to countless perils, and to whom this letter is addressed. Railroads are not playgrounds, nor are they conducted for the amusement of children.

As for the little cherubs(?) who stand on bridges and drop or throw sticks and stones on passing trains: A good leather strap at home would prove useful in this case, lest repeated and more serious offences subsequently lead the way to jail.

Though the summer vacation is about over, there are other holidays—too many, some folks think!—on which children of school age will have opportunities of endangering their lives or "getting up to mischief." If, therefore, The Newton Graphic will invite public attention to this matter, it will perform a service of real importance and value, in the community.

Law and Order.

THE Socony sign of supreme motoring service is a common sight in rural Vermont and from Old Town, Maine to Chautauqua County, New York.

Automobile tourists have come to depend upon it. They have found it in out-of-the-way places—on many trips it was "a friend in need". And many large gasoline users in the cities know what Socony service means—they too have come to depend upon it. The uniform qualities of Socony gasoline have made it the logical fuel for every motor transportation requirement.

Socony isn't merely one of many gasolines. It represents fifty years of refining experience, and is made by the most improved methods known to the industry. It is truly the standard of quality gasoline.

Socony gasoline, with the proper carburetor adjustment, insures quick starting, clean combustion, low carbonization and full mileage from every gallon. Regular Socony users enjoy these advantages every day the year round, for Socony service enables them to fill up everywhere.

COMMENDS TUFTS

With the first signs of spring, the annual epidemic of automobile thieving is said to be sweeping over the country. Reports from many of the leading cities show this particular form of crime is increasing steadily despite the best efforts of the police to put a check to it.

When these facts were recently presented to a man who practically single-handed cleaned out an entire district which was overruning with this type of outlaw, he said:

"It is to be expected. Just so long as motor vehicle owners are going to assume the attitude that they can leave a valuable automobile unguarded and that it will take care of itself or that the police will take care of it for them, the number of motor vehicle thefts is going to be on the increase."

Startling but true, and a weighty argument, too, coming from one who caused the arrest and indictment of 135 motor thieves in less than three months secured the sentencing of 33 of that number and rid his entire province, a district of nearly a million souls, with such efficiency and dispatch as was never before known in criminal history.

That man is Nathan A. Tufts, District Attorney for the County of Middlesex in Massachusetts, who suggested as remedies for the evil:

1. The impounding by the police of every parked automobile found on the streets or highways without some suitable lock.

2. Compelling every private garage owner to report all rentals or sub-leases of machines or garage whether rented to friends or strangers.

3. Immediate report of thefts by the victims.

4. Heavier jail sentences. Among other reasons which lead to the prevalence of automobile thieving, in the opinion of District Attorney Tufts, the most difficult to contend with is the connivance of many owners in the actual theft itself—a conspiracy entered into for the sake of collecting the insurance on the car. The slow process of law has had a bad effect, too, he says.

He stated that there are instances which had come to his attention where through the efforts of the police cars have been recovered, yet owners had refused to identify them, although the evidence of their ownership was indisputable. They preferred to have their insurance. Third, there is a tendency to deal leniently with youngsters, many of whom are the offenders. This results in a boldness which can only be quelled by drastic measures.

Buffalo, New York, has made it a hard and fast law that every automobile parked on the streets of that city must be locked. If the police find a car which is not locked, they drive or tow it to a public "pound" and hold it until the owner pays a heavy fine. Furthermore, the cars must be so locked that they can be moved in case of fire.

Auto stealing in Buffalo has taken a sudden turn for the better, and the thieves are avoiding the city as though it has the plague.

The new law increasing the penalty for theft of automobiles has done much to lessen the tendency to steal. The first prosecution under this law was put into operation by District Attorney Tufts in Middlesex County. Two young men, who escaped from jail at Deer Island last fall, stole a car in Watertown the day following and started on their way to New York. They were apprehended in Connecticut and were brought back for trial. At a special sitting of the Grand Jury they were indicted and on the afternoon of the same day they were arraigned. On a plea of guilty they were both sentenced to six to eight years in State Prison in Charlestown. But three days elapsed between the theft and their being sent to State Prison. The records hold no case of swifter retribution.

Whatever success in eliminating and curbing the practice of auto stealing has been met with in Middlesex County is due, he says, to the drastic action taken and the extreme penalties imposed.

District Attorney Tufts and the thousands of motor vehicle owners in his district are not fearing the coming touring season. One other point on which motorists are altogether too lax, is that of placing identification marks on their cars. The majority of motor car thieves steal only the most popular models of the most common makes, machines which are so ordinary appearing as not to arouse suspicion when seen on the street. Few thieves would think of stealing a high-priced machine of special body design. He would be too easily apprehended.

In many instances car owners have been found who do not know the engine chassis or maker's numbers of their cars, and so cannot positively identify their property when recovered by the police. Motor crooks are a practical and businesslike lot, and soon have a stolen car so changed, so altered, and identifying marks so obliterated that its owner could never recognize it but for some special marks of his own. It is wise, therefore, to notch the frame, scrape some metal part, insert an extra screw, or by some other means so mark his car that the wariest of thieves can be detected.

There are many practical anti-thefting devices on the market which are of decided benefit to the police in detecting stolen cars as well as hampering the efforts of the thieves, and it is almost a duty for motorists to equip their machines with some such device. Not to do so is to be neglectful. Nowhere is the saying "an ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure" so well exemplified as in the motor stealing situation.

Adherence to these valuable points of advice from Mr. Tufts by the motoring public should considerably hamper, if not lessen, motor car stealing.

The police and the motor authorities have done their part religiously to eliminate the evil but their efforts must be fruitless without the public co-operation.—The Automobilitist.

GREEN TOMATOES ARE SUPERIOR FOR JELLY

Attractive in Color and of Pleasant Taste.

Pectin Substances and Acids of Lemon and Orange Are Found in Both Juice and White Peel—Left-Over Pulp Is Useful.

By adding lemon or orange, or both, a jelly can be made from green tomatoes which is of an attractive color and of pleasant, though unusual flavor. The pectin substances and acids of lemon and orange, which confer jelly-making properties upon the tomato juice, are found in both juice and white peel, but especially in the latter. The bitter taste of the uncooked white peel will not interfere with the flavor of the uncooked product, according to home economic experts of the United States department of agriculture.

3 pounds green tomatoes.
2 pints water.
1½ lemons (7 ounces).
2 oranges (15 ounces).
2 cups sugar (about 14 ounces).
2 cups sirup (nearly 2 pounds).

Cut tomatoes into small pieces, cook in 1 pint of water for half an hour. At the same time cook the orange rind, cut up small or put through a meat chopper, in a pint of water, slightly salted so as to keep the peel tender, in case it is to be used later in making a relish. Combine these two mixtures, and drain through a jelly bag in the usual way. Squeeze the juice gently, in order not to waste the juice which remains behind. You will find that in this case squeezing does not greatly affect even the appearance of the jelly. There should be a quart of juice, more or less, according to the rate at which the water may have boiled down. Boil the juice for ten minutes to reduce it in bulk and concentrate its solids. At the end of the boiling period, measure the juice; for each cupful of juice, add one-half cupful of sugar and one-half cupful sirup. Boil until a good jelly test is secured—that is, until it begins to jelly as the last drippings come from the spoon or when a drop stands on a cold plate. The amount of jelly secured will be at least three glasses or somewhat more than one pint. It may under favorable circumstances be almost twice this.

If this juice when poured into glasses shows signs of jelling, but does not set at once, set it away, lightly covered with cloth, for several days; you may secure a fine, firm jelly at the end of a week. It should then be covered with hot paraffin as usual.

In our own experience, the jellies made with a large proportion of corn sirup will be satisfactory if served within an hour or two after turning out of the glass, but do not "hold up" perfectly if left to stand for a day or two, even though quite firm in the beginning.

Use pulp left after draining for sweet-spiced green tomato relish.

MEAT PIE MADE ATTRACTIVE

Mashed Potato Crust Makes Excellent Substitute for Pastry—Brown Well on Top.

In place of the pastry crust for meat pies, a mashed potato crust is sometimes a pleasant change. This makes an attractive way of serving meat and potatoes together instead of as two separate dishes.

Shepherd's Pie.—Line a dish around the sides with mashed potatoes prepared as for the table, then fill with minced lamb, veal or any other left over meat, well seasoned and mixed with a little gravy.

Cover the top with mashed potatoes and criss cross with a knife. Put in oven and heat until hot through and well browned on top.—United States Department of Agriculture.

PRIZE FOR HIGH-SCHOOL BOY

Two Montana Lads Take First Honors in Canning and Bread Making at State Fair.

The canning demonstration awarded first prize at the Montana state fair last fall was put on by a high-school boy, a member of the boys' club conducted by the United States department of agriculture and the state agriculture college. Likewise, the first prize in the bread demonstration went to a boy—one from the same high school. Both lads were over seventeen. One of the ideals of the leaders in the club work is to socialize the members, as they believe a happier and more successful home life is obtained when the man is familiar with the woman's work, and vice versa.

FISHING IN BOYHOOD DAYS

Glorious Time When Mother Kept Supper and Praised the Five Little Sunfish.

The city man who was the country boy of yesterday closes his eyes a few minutes and lives over again a summer afternoon of long ago, notes the Milwaukee Journal. A day when his little crowd, equipped with enough worms to feed a school of fish, betook itself to the pool where it was annually reported and fervently believed the big bass were hiding.

They didn't get big bass. Bites came slowly, and those they landed were little sunfish. Is there anywhere in any lake a muskie big enough to give him as great a thrill as those little sunfish? He was late to supper, but there was supper kept for him. And mother didn't scold. She was pleased as punch, and told him to hurry and clean the fish, and she would cook them. And she did.

No other grown person praised his catch. In all the world he and mother alone recognized how worth while those five little sunfish were. And yet it didn't seem wonderful that she didn't ask him where the bass were. That was what other people did.

It was a wonderful day, but as he looks back on it, he sees that the wonderful thing was not the little string of "boy's fish," but the mother who was so pleased that she stood over a hot stove cooking them. How glad she was to do it. How happy she would be if she could do it again, today. But she lives too far away now.

We wonder if he remembers to write and tell her of his discovery—his discovery that mother's heart was big enough to make his little fish a splendid catch.

FOREST ON DRIFTING SANDS

Frenchman's Ingenuity Has Made of Waste Place a Region of Fertility and Usefulness.

In the southwest corner of France, between the rivers Adour and Garonne, are long stretches of pine woods, green and cool. Where these pines now stand was a barren waste in the middle of the eighteenth century. Sun and wind vied with each other in making the land drier and dustier. Over the stormy bay of Biscay came winds that set up great sand storms and sometimes buried whole villages. But at last there came along a man who acknowledged fate only as something to be overcome. His name was Bremonter and he was an inspector of roads. He began fencing in the desert. He built a fence and behind it planted a handful of broom seeds. Behind the broom seeds he put seeds of the pine. The fence protected the broom seeds and the broom grew. Then the broom in its turn afforded shelter to the delicate pine shoots. Soon the pines spread and their tough roots bound this sandy soil together. The first step was accomplished. Then canals were made to drain the wet parts and carry water to the dry.

Ammonia From the Air.

A syndicate has been formed to establish a nitrogen factory for the manufacture of ammonia synthetically from the nitrogen of the air, says the American Chamber of Commerce in London.

The syndicate has purchased the extensive site in County Durham which the British government acquired more than two years ago for the purpose of building a factory. The capital required will be $325,000,000.

The process to be adopted, says the American chamber, will be on the principle of the German chemist, Haber. Nitrogen and hydrogen will be combined into ammonia under pressure at a high temperature, the ammonia then being converted into nitric acid or other nitrates as may be required either for the manufacture of explosives or for use as fertilizers.

Must Not Disturb Swans.

Even the highest in the French Republic must bow before the edicts of the French protocol, as Mme. Deschanel, wife of the president, learned when she objected to the presence of five white swans in the Elysee palace ponds. The swans, Mme. Deschanel admitted, were very beautiful, but nearly every morning early they disturbed the rest of the president's household, and therefore she inquired whether they could not be removed. The chief of the protocol found that sixteen years ago a clause was written in the protocol which provided that not less than five swans must be kept in the Elysee palace grounds, for the feeding of which the keeper of the presidential gardens was responsible.

Hidden Identity Many Months.

Miss Gwendoline Farrar, who inherited a fortune of several million dollars from her father, Sir George Farrar, the Rand millionaire, who was one of those sentenced to death by Boers for taking part in the Jameson raid, is a young woman who can keep a secret. For more than a year Miss Farrar has been appearing on the London stage, and only recently was her identity discovered by accident.

Canada's Soldier Police.

The Canadian Northwest mounted police is one of the most noted organizations of the character in the world because of the efficiency of its service, which was established nearly 50 years ago. Recently the headquarters of the organization have been changed to Ottawa and the size of the organization enlarged and the territory covered by the scarlet coated officials has been greatly increased.

SEES GOOD IN THE TEA CUP

Doctor Eliot, Aged Educator, Goes on Record as Having Faith in That Moderate Stimulant.

Dr. Charles W. Eliot, now in his eighty-sixth year, confesses to a deviation from the strict rule of abstinence which cannot but cause concern in the inner circles of moral reform, says the New York World. Though he has always indulged in "stimulants like tea, coffee and alcohol," and in tobacco not at all for more than half a century, he yet finds a certain virtue in tea drinking. "I have used tea most," he says, "because it seems to me to facilitate the mental effort of writing and speaking."

If the venerable ex-president of Harvard university had merely said that he derived some dietetic benefit from tea, no exception would be taken to the statement. It is his frank admission that he uses tea as a stimulant and finds that it helps his mental processes which will be challenged.

Can there be good in any stimulant? Can the willful excitation of the mind by any kind of brew be other than immoral in its essential nature? All simon-pure reformers of the drink will feel sure that the use of tea has drugged Doctor Eliot's intellect and robbed it of its highest productivity. But what the world has lost in that particular will count as nothing to the self-revelation that this distinguished champion of temperance is not 100 per cent perfect in his prohibition views.

NEW ROUTES OF NEAR EAST

Railroad Lines Will Be Materially Extended as the Result of Operations of the Great War.

The military operations of the war gave a material boost to railroad development in the near East, says Lewis Heck, in Asia. After their successful campaign at the end of 1917, the British extended their track line from Egypt to Palestine, connecting at Ramleh near Jerusalem. The line then went on to Haifa, which the British are planning to make their great port in the East and the principal terminus on the Mediterranean for a new short-line railroad to Bagdad and India, connecting Egypt and the African possessions with India. The war gave the Bagdad railway extensions in Cilicia, northern Syria and Mesopotamia—British prisoners of war furnishing much of the labor. The tunnels through the Taurus mountains were completed. Trains now run from Constantinople through Aleppo to Nisibin. At the eastern terminus of the line—Bagdad—trains run northward as far as Tekrit. Between Nisibin and Tekrit is an unfinished section of a few hundred miles. Before the war, trains did not run at night on this line, but this was changed by stern necessity. When normal traffic conditions are re-established, the journey from Constantinople to Bagdad and on to the Persian Gulf can be made in a few days.

Shakespeare Farm to Be Sold.

Among the numerous landed properties which are coming into market during the next few months is one of more than ordinary interest, namely, the Grendon Underwood estate, Buckinghamshire, says the London Telegraph. This belongs to Mrs. Pigott, a member of a family resident in the district for centuries, who has decided to sell. This village has many historical and literary associations, which chiefly center round its westerly portion, where stands the old Elizabethan habitation now known as Shakespeare farm.

It was here, when the house was a wayside hostelry, then named the Old Shippe, that Shakespeare, it is affirmed, used to stay when journeying to and from Stratford-on-Avon.

Find New Fertilizer.

An important addition to the fertilizer supply of the United States is to be made.

About 2,500,000 acres of lands in Wyoming, Idaho, Utah and Montana, containing valuable phosphate deposits have been divided into areas not exceeding 2,500 each, according to the Journal of Industrial and Engineering Chemistry.

For years these lands have been awaiting congressional legislation in regard to the leasing of phosphate deposits in public lands. Regulations in this connection have now been approved by Secretary of the Interior Payne. Applications for leases are to be filed with the local land office for transmission to the secretary of the Interior—Chemical Round Table.

Peanut Production.

Alabama is the leading state in peanut production, with 6,840,000 bushels to her credit in 1919, while five other states produced from 3,400,000 bushels to 5,500,000 bushels each. The total production of peanuts in the United States last year was 33,363,000 bushels, having a cash value of $80,000,000. Last winter the average price paid for peanuts was $2.40 per bushel.

Trucks Grow in Favor.

There were 955,993 trucks in use at the end of the year 1919, as compared with approximately 700,000 of the preceding year. This is a gain of 27 per cent, 16 per cent greater than the increase shown by passenger cars. Only eighteen states make compilations of truck registration. New York leads with others following in this order: Illinois, Ohio, Pennsylvania, California Iowa and Texas. Nevada with 700 is at the foot of the list.

NEW EXECUTIVE SECRETARY

Miss Barker to Serve Norumbega District Sunday School Association

Miss Lulliano Barker has been engaged for the newly created position of Executive Secretary of the Norumbega District Sunday School Association and has begun her duties.

Miss Barker is unusually well qualified by experience and training for this position. Since graduating from Smith College she has been Extension Secretary of the Boston Children's Aid Society, which position she gave up in order to spend a year of study at Boston University in the Department of Religious Education. For two weeks during the present summer she has been attending a School of Methods run by the International Sunday School Association for the training of state and district workers.

As a local school volunteer for several years she has taught both boys and girls and has recently been superintendent of the Junior Department of the Methodist Episcopal Sunday School in Watertown. She has considerable acquaintance in this District through service for two years upon the Music Committee which has had charge of the annual Festival of Memory Hymns, and for the past year as Divisional Secretary of the Children's Division, in which she has done constructive work. She brings to the position a deep interest and valuable experience.

The work of the Norumbega Association, which embraces all the evangelical Sunday schools in the district, has been increasing rapidly during the past two years. In committee meetings, in special conferences and in convention gatherings, sentiment has been decidedly in favor of continuing these district activities which have brought practical help and large vision to several hundreds of Sunday School workers, and of adding such other activities as may be warranted in the future by the growing interest in religious education. In order to accomplish these ends it has been deemed necessary to relieve the District officers of much of the detailed work by the employment of a director or a secretary, either on whole or on part time. This sentiment crystallized into action at the Annual Convention held last May, when it was voted to employ a secretary on part time.

There are certain definite things in the field of religious education and Sunday school work which can be accomplished to advantage only by hearty co-operative community action, such as further training of those now teaching, establishment and promotion of standards of attainment, arousing of general interest in religious education by presentation of

Representative Brimblecom Replies to Attacks in Recent Political Circular

In view of the interest now being taken in the effect on the recent contest for the Republican nomination for representatives, of the circulation of the so called "Green" letter among the voters of Newton, I have been persuaded, with considerable reluctance on my part, to answer in detail the various charges and insinuations contained in that letter.

CONTRADICTORY EVIDENCE

Given in Police Court as to Responsibility of "Green" Letter

The inside history of the campaign of Reuben Forknall for the Republican nomination for representative was aired at court proceedings held Tuesday and Wednesday at the local police court, on a complaint brought by Representative John C. Brimblecom that the election laws had been violated in the circulation of a libellous political circular against him and which was undoubtedly responsible for the nomination of Forknall instead of Brimblecom.

The law provides that no money can be expended on behalf of any candidate, except by a political committee, or some person authorized by the candidate. It will be recalled that Forknall sent an open letter last week to the voters of Newton in which he said, "I am in no way responsible either by inspiring, suggestion or in the writing, printing or circulation" of the letter sent out before the primary signed by Thomas F. Green.

Mr. Charles F. Rowley represented the attorney general at the proceedings which were in the nature of an inquest.

The features of the inquest included the conflicting testimony of Mr. Reuben Forknall, who said on Tuesday that he knew absolutely nothing about the letter, and on Wednesday modified his testimony so far as to

Mr. Forknall's Testimony

TUESDAY

Mr. Forknall. What is your full name?
A. Reuben Forknall.
Q. And where do you live, Mr. Forknall?
A. 24½ California street.
Q. What is your business?
A. Attorney-at-law.
Q. Were you a candidate in the recent primaries for the republican nomination as representative of Newton to the General Court?
A. I was.
Q. In connection with your activities did you recommend a committee to act for you?
A. I did not.
Q. Do you know whether or not any such committee was organized in your behalf by anybody?
A. I do not.
Q. Have you any knowledge whatever of the existence at any time of a political committee that worked on your behalf?
A. I have not.
Q. I show you a circular letter or a letter dated September 1st, 1920, called an open letter to the Voters of Newton, and reported to be signed by one Thomas F. Green, and ask you if you personally gave instructions as to sending out of that letter?
A. I did not.
Q. Did you know of your own knowledge whether anyone reported to act for you, or in your behalf, sent out that letter?
A. I do not.
Q. You have no such knowledge?
A. No, I have not.
Q. Did you personally pay out any money or attend in any way to the mailing of that circular letter?
A. I did not.
Q. And in no way authorized it?
A. No.
Q. No further questions. That is all.

WEDNESDAY

Q. Mr. Forknall, will you please take the witness stand. Mr. Forknall, are you acquainted with Mr. Jarvis?
A. I am.
Q. H. W. Jarvis. Have you known him for sometime?
A. I have known him for a number of years.
Q. In your last campaign in the primaries did Mr. Jarvis work with you, and for you?
A. Last year.
Q. No, this year.
A. He did work with me and for me.
Q. Did he work for you at your request and suggestion?
A. He did not.
Q. Did you authorize him on your behalf or in your interest to do anything to further your campaign?
A. I did not, he offered.
Q. What did he offer to do? Tell us the conversation you had with him.
A. After my announcement in the paper, in the papers, that I was to run for candidate for the Legislature, Mr. Jarvis called at my office, and said that he thought that he could do me quite a little good amongst his personal friends. I said I should be very pleased to have him do it, and the conversation practically ended about that time. There was nothing further said at the first time that he came in.
Q. About when was that?
A. I couldn't fix the date. It was early—it must have been early in July. Then at another interview the question arose as to sending out a circular. He thought that he could get a number of clients for me, and I said, "I want to see it in black and white before anything is done. He says alright, I will bring it in and show it to you. Later on I received a telephone, at least my office did, that Mr. Jarvis wanted to see me. I received the telephone from Mr. Jarvis direct. He had a letter he wanted to show me. I said you come into my office, and he said I will—hadn't you better come over to mine. I said no, he came over to my office, and there was a number of clients in, and he said you had better come over to my office when I get through there. I went over. He showed me a long letter, and read it. I should say there was about four pages. I couldn't say for sure. He read the letter, and made a firing comment all the way through. He made a long statement with reference to something that had transpired with Senator Weston. I said that has nothing to do with this campaign. I brushed that aside. Then he finished reading. I turned to him and said this is your old friend Jarvis and Brimblecom, I want nothing to do with it. If you can get out a letter and will bring it to me and I can O.K. it, then I will talk to you about sending it out. He had this letter which I brushed aside, and said that was his old friend Jarvis and Brimblecom. Had nothing to do with my campaign.
Q. Mr. Jarvis was not running for office?
A. He was not.
Q. So the only object to put out that literature would be to further your campaign against Mr. Brimblecom?
A. Yes.
Q. You knew that no money could be spent indirectly or directly for a candidate except on his authorization, or his accounting for it?
A. I did.
Q. How would you estimate the paying for it?
A. I told Mr. Jarvis that I had no money for any such literature. I had my own literature that I was getting out, and paying for it myself. That was all I was able to do. He said he would take care of that part of it.
Q. Was the literature which he showed you at that time in his office, in substance the same as this literature which you probably have seen, that one under the name of Green?
A. There were some features I commented on.
Q. What did you comment on?
A. I commented on a great deal that was not in here. I commented upon, the only one here that I commented upon was the Allen Emery, the only one, and the uniform. I commented upon the Allen Emery, that is the only thing that struck me, that I knew about. I did know about the Allen Emery affair. I said that letter wasn't mine. That was a fight between Jarvis and Brimblecom. I discarded the letter. I objected to his sending it out. He said he would take and write another letter. I said alright, go ahead and do so, but I want to O.K. it. I am going to send out my own literature, and send it over my own signature.

Q. Did you say that you would not authorize that literature?
A. I certainly told him that I wouldn't have anything to do with that literature.
Q. Did you know that he intended to send out that literature?
A. I know that at that time he intended to send out the literature.
Q. Did you mention Mr. Green to him?
A. No.
Q. Then how did you know that he was going to see Mr. Green about signing the letter?
A. He told me in a later conversation that he thought he could get Tommy Green to sign it. I said that had nothing to do with me, that he could get Tommy Green to sign it if he wanted to.
Q. You are sure that you didn't tell him that if he wanted to get some one to sign the letter he could get Mr. Green to sign it?
A. I am. Mr. Frank Chapman is the one that circulated my papers at Newton Highlands. I said to him you tell Mr. Green from me that I want him to be very careful what he does because I had no confidence in what might transpire from the first letter.
Q. Did you ever subsequent to that time see the letter?
A. I did.
Q. When?
A. Are you referring to that letter?
A. No, I never saw anything further of it.
Q. Did you suggest to Mr. Jarvis that he raise money in Newton, or anywhere else on your behalf?
A. I never did.
Q. Did you know that he was raising money on your behalf?
A. I knew that he was doing it.
Q. You knew that he was raising money on your behalf?
A. I knew that he was raising money for what he was going to do, but not for me, for my benefit.
Q. You knew as a matter of law that he must raise no money or spend any on his own account for this campaign?
A. Why, yes.
Q. That is for you, but with your knowledge you didn't protest against his raising money to spend in the campaign?
A. No, not to do the work that he contemplated doing, but not at my request. Haven't a bill, but I have made up the list of just what I . . .
Q. You have got a list of what you spent?
A. I have just a list of $64.34 for printing and $239.21 for envelopes, cards, and directing envelopes.
Q. What is the total of the expenditures?
A. The total is $239.21.
Q. Is the $64 included in that?
A. The $64 included in that.
Q. That covered the cost of sending out your own literature?
A. Yes, I have copies of my own literature here.

A. I would be very glad to put them in.

CONTRADICTING EVIDENCE

admit going over a draft of the proposed circular with Mr. Jarvis, and the testimony of Mr. Jarvis to the effect that Mr. Forknall knew all the details of the preparation, printing and mailing of the circulars. We give these conflicting testimonies in full so that our readers can form their own conclusions.

Mr. Green's testimony on Tuesday and on Wednesday is also given practically in full.

Mr. Forknall and Mr. Green were the only witnesses on Tuesday. On Wednesday there was quite an array. Miss Riddell testified that she had prepared and mailed out some 5000 of the Green letters and charged them to Reuben Forknall. She had been paid $175 in cash by an unknown young man who brought her the money and told her it was the Forknall account. Mr. Jarvis had given her the order for the work.

Harry L. Jones testified that he had received a letter from Mr. Jarvis while away, to which he had replied favorably. Later he had sent $175 in cash to Miss Riddell's office at the urgent request of Mr. Jarvis. He had pledged $50 himself and considered the balance as a loan to be repaid.

Mr. Fred S. Retan said he had been asked to contribute last Monday, Sept. 13 and after some conversation with Mr. Jarvis had given him $15 in cash. An hour and a half later Mr. Jarvis had returned to him saying that they did not need it.

Mr. Herbert E. Locke testified that he knew nothing about the matter had not been asked to contribute and had not even seen the letter.

Mr. Allan C. Emery of Weymouth testified that he had received a letter from Jarvis asking for contributions and had declined at first. Later he had received a second letter and sent Jarvis $5 in cash. Later on, hearing there was need of more money, he had sent a check for $35.00 to Jarvis. "I gave simply to help Reuben Forknall."

Mr. William T. Rich testified that he had received a letter from Jarvis asking for a contribution and had sent him a check, which might have been $50. A second letter asking for funds he had not replied to.

Arthur L. Priest who folded the circular letters also testified that he had done the work for Miss Riddell.

—The Wesley Bible Class had a get-together in the vestry of the Methodist Church on Tuesday evening. Refreshments were served and plans were made for the program of the coming fall and winter months.

—A meeting will be held in the Reading Room, Tuesday evening, September 21st, at 8 o'clock for the discussion of the possibilities for a public hall. Representatives from all the churches and organizations have been asked to attend. As this matter is of such general importance it is hoped that everyone interested will come to the meeting and help to solve the problem. The meeting has been called jointly by Mrs. Bertha B. Cobb, president of the Woman's Club and Mrs. C. A. Chadwick, president of the Improvement Society.

ANSWERS CHARGES

performing some extra and unusual work at City Hall I hired some clerical assistance for which I have never paid and that in consequence I am unpopular at City Hall.

The work for which I was paid $500 in 1911 entailed several months of careful investigation, which required my own supervision. As I never employed any assistance for this work I was not called upon to pay anyone for it. My popularity or unpopularity at City Hall is of no importance to the public, but I have good grounds to believe that the statement in the letter is incorrect, to say the least.

2. The second item charges that I called Mr. Nathan Heard a liar.

In 1905 (before Mr. Heard was a deacon in Eliot Church, that matter is of interest) I had occasion to sharply criticize members of the Republican ward committee for arousing race and religious prejudices against the election of Dr. Fawcett as a member of the school committee. At that time I was not aware that Mr. Heard was a member of the committee as my evidence related to only two members of the ward 7 committee. A few days later Mr. Heard met me on the street and indignantly resented my editorial criticisms of that committee. So far as I am now able to recall, the heat of the argument was on the part of Mr. Heard, against whom I had made no charge, and whom, so far as I knew, had no connection with the underhanded work of his colleagues.

I have always had a high regard for Mr. Heard's character and ability.

3. The third item that I made an offensive challenge of the vote of Mr. Allan C. Emery in 1917 is true so far as the challenge itself is concerned. Mr. Emery was a resident of Weymouth at the time and was voting in Newton. That the challenge was "offensive" is not true, as it was made late in the afternoon when the polling place was practically deserted except for the election officers, and the one or two voters who were present have assured me that they did not even hear what I was saying.

My challenge was made on the spur of the moment and I have always considered it a great mistake.

Moreover, the day following the primary I wrote Mr. Emery, stating my belief in the challenge, and regretting any annoyance it might have caused him.

4. The charge that I lost my head and made an unseemly attack on Dr. Chirug is unqualifiedly false. Dr. Chirug and I are, and have been, on the best of terms on the few occasions we have met.

5. The charge that I "disgraced" the uniform of the state guard probably refers to the fact, that as a representative to be from Newton, I wrote to Governor Coolidge on a matter concerning the discharge of the Newton Constabulary from the state guard. This took place a few weeks after the Constabulary had been relieved from duty on account of the Boston police strike, and I had been urged to bring the matter to the attention of the Governor by some 20 or 25 members of the Constabulary. For this breach of military etiquette I was duly "reprimanded" in an official order "for un military conduct". Personally I do not consider it a "disgrace" to represent my constituents at the State House on any matter affecting their interests.

6. The quotation from an unknown member of the 1920 Legislature about my general attitude at the State House last winter, may well be offset by the following extract from a recent letter from the Speaker of the House, Hon. Joseph E. Warner—

"June 25th, 1920.

My dear Mr. Brimblecom:
I trust you will have no trouble in being returned to the House another year. If your constituents were as familiar with your ability as a legislator as I am I believe you would have no opposition.
Sincerely yours,
Joseph E. Warner."

The impression conveyed by the Green letter that I voted for maternity benefits bills carrying millions of dollars, is absolutely false. As a member of the committee to which that subject was referred, I voted against the three bills carrying large appropriations and assisted in drafting and urged the passage of Senate 506, a bill carrying an appropriation of $200,000 for experimental work in that direction, a bill which had the hearty approval of Gov. Coolidge and was also endorsed by the unanimous vote of the Newton Medical Society.

I voted against the Sunday sports bill at the urgent request of Eliot church and similar organizations in Newton, taking the ground that Newton ought to be conservative in any measure, which might in the future, lead to a wide open Sunday.

The matter of the recess committee on consolidation of the statutes has been persistently misrepresented by the Boston newspapers and others. As a matter of fact this committee was expressly recognized by the Constitutional Convention, was recommended by Gov. Coolidge and by the two leading committees of the House and Senate and on its final passage was opposed by only 15 members of the House. I opposed the lump sum method of paying for the work and voted for all amendments which sought to reduce the appropriation for this purpose, and personally favored a per diem method of compensation. Incidentally as a first year man, I did not expect and made no effort to receive an appointment on this committee.

I do not recall advocating the appointment of any recess committee, as I made it a rule not to debate any matter on the floor of the House unless it related to Newton or was a measure reported from committees of which I was a member.

To those who do not know me, let me request consideration of the following evidence as to my character—For the past 23 years I have been annually elected by 21 aldermen without a dissenting voice to the small but confidential office of clerk of committees. Previous to that for 10 years I had been annually elected clerk of the Common Council of Newton consisting of 14 members, the election on the last eight years being unanimous. I also served the West Newton Unitarian Church as its clerk for a period of nine years.

It might be fair to assume that if my character was as bad as has been stated, some evidence of it might have come to light in these successive elections covering a period of 33 years.

DEATH OF REV. MR. SPAULDING

Rev. Henry G. Spaulding, a former well known resident of Newton, who held pastorates in the Unitarian denomination in Framingham and Dorchester and later was prominent as a lecturer, died this week at his home, 1470 Beacon street, Brookline.

Mr. Spaulding was born in Spencer, May 28, 1837, the son of Dr. Reuben Spaulding and Electa Goodenough (Clark) Spaulding. At the age of 12 he was a church organist and contributed articles for musical journals. He was graduated from Phillips Academy in the class of 1856 and from Harvard College in 1860. He was editor of the college magazine, and won prizes in English and Greek composition. He was graduated from the Harvard Divinity School in 1866.

During the Civil War Mr. Spaulding was connected with the United States Sanitary Commission. He was ordained in 1868 and became minister of First Parish, Framingham. In 1873 he became minister of the Third Religious Society of Dorchester.

Four years later Mr. Spaulding began his career as a lecturer, and in 1883 he was made secretary of the Unitarian Sunday School Society. He lectured in all of the large cities in this country and also abroad.

Mr. Spaulding was twice secretary of the Harvard Class of 1860. He was a member of the St. Botolph Club, Twentieth Century Club, Tuesday Club and Newton Club, the Browning Society, the Theological Club and the Appalachian Club.

Mr. Spaulding's first wife, who was Lucy Warland Plympton, died in 1910. There were two children by this marriage—Henry Plympton Spaulding and Elizabeth Bell Spaulding. The latter died in 1889.

His second wife, Jane Langworthy Spaulding, daughter of Hon. Nathaniel and Anne E. (Carr) Langworthy of Westbury, R. I. survives.

POMROY HOME

Through the generosity of Mrs. Smith P. Burton the Pomroy Home has spent a second summer at Wolfeboro, New Hampshire. The wooded shore of Winnepesaukee with facilities for bathing, has been a wonderful playground for the children, who have enjoyed to the full their life in the country. Not only has the use of the house been provided, but electric lights, coal, telephone and fourteen quarts of milk a day.

The Directors and Superintendent as well as the children cannot be sufficiently grateful for this hospitality which Mrs. Burton has so graciously extended.

EDITORIAL

We very much regret that the political inquest held this week could not go into the merits of the various charges made against the editor. It will be noted that Mr. Green testified that he had personal knowledge of but one of the so-called charges. We trust that the answers printed elsewhere in this issue will explain the editor's side of the matter.

Attention is requested to the notice relative to registration of voters elsewhere in this issue. We should advise the ladies who contemplate registering to go to the City Hall, as it will be less crowded.

The editor regrets that so much space is taken this week in matters affecting him personally, but as it is his only opportunity to defend his reputation, possibly it may be overlooked.

Comment on the inquest held this week is withheld until after the court renders its decision.

NEWTON CLUB

The season was opened Wednesday night at the open air concert and dance which was attended by about a hundred members and their ladies. One tennis court was covered with canvas and used for dancing while many small tables filled the second court at which the guests were seated and on which light drinks and refreshments were served.

The first corps Cadet band furnished excellent music from the club veranda and the place was beautifully illuminated by festoons of colored electric lights.

Arrangements are being made to continue the Thursday night community dinners which were so popular last season. They will probably start in November.

HORACE MANN SCHOOL

The conditions of the Horace Mann School this year are quite different from those of last year. In addition to the eight school rooms, of the building there is a new portable building. This is occupied by the second grade and is located near the main building. The portable building is a very pleasant school room and the children seem to enjoy it greatly. There are four new teachers in the school, Miss Reed who teaches one of the sixth grades, Mr. Sheafe a teacher of one of the seventh grades, Miss Larrabee fourth grade teacher and Miss Tewksbury third grade teacher. We also have a helping teacher, Miss Brown.

Smoke doors have been placed on both first and second floors. In case of fire these doors prevent the smoke from going to the other end of the building, thus enabling the children to leave the building safely.

Mr. Jarvis' Testimony

Mr. Jarvis testified that he had had some conversation with Forknall about running for representative and suggested that a circular letter should be sent out on Brimblecom's legislative record and some comments on the fact that he wasn't a man of good judgment. He had suggested that Forknall had better run down the House roll calls for material on the legislative record.

He then testified—
Q. What conversation did you have with him?

A. I asked him what he was doing about the Brimblecom record, and why he says I think if you going to get out a circular letter that you had better put the record in that, and he said you had better write up something. Yes, that is the way that he expressed it to me, can't you write up something over Sunday, and I'll come in and see you Monday morning. Says I will come over to your place if you want to.

Q. At that time had anything been said about raising money to pay for it?

A. Yes.
Q. What was said, and when?

A. There was a previous conversation. I told him that I had written to one or two gentlemen, and that they were willing to contribute to his campaign.

Q. You had informed him before this time when he asked you to write the letter that you had written to several people asking them to contribute to his campaign fund, is that correct?

A. Yes.
Q. What comment did he make at that if any?

A. He said that he appreciated the interest that these men took in his campaign.

Q. Did he not in any way suggest that you go on raising money?

A. Nothing more than assenting to it.

Q. Any direct phrase?

A. I think so.
Q. Can you recall the time, when, and what he said?

A. Well, I do. On Monday when he came in he spoke of it, the second day after that.

Q. But prior to the Saturday that you say that he asked you to write up something over Sunday, had nothing been said up to that time by him relative to raising money for his campaign fund?

A. Yes, I am sure there had been.
Q. Do you know when it was?

A. It was sometime previous.
Q. What was said?

A. He had said that he couldn't pay for anything more than just for his campaign literature, and that if this circular letter was going out he would have to get that from some of these friends.

Q. Some of your friends, or his friends?

A. His friends of whom we spoke at that time.

Q. Of whom did you speak at that time?

A. Spoke about Mr. Jones, and Mr. Rich, and I think Mr. Retan, and Mr. Emery.

Q. That is, at some time prior to this Saturday when you were discussing his campaign, he said that if money was to be raised to send out something other than he was putting out under his own name, others than he would have to contribute the money, is that correct?

A. Yes. He said that he didn't feel that he could afford more than $100 to go into it.

Q. Did you tell him that you would raise the money, would help him? Do you remember as near as you can the words that you used at that time?

A. Told him that I would send to these gentlemen and ask them if they wouldn't contribute.

Q. Contribute to what?

A. To his campaign fund.

Q. What did he say to that?

A. He assented to it.

Q. Was it the result of that conversation—as a result of that conversation with him at that time that you sent out those letters asking for contributions to his campaign fund?

A. Yes.

Q. Was that on Saturday night after talking with him that you set out to write out something in the form of a circular letter?

A. I did.

Q. When did you do that work?

A. Saturday evening.

Q. When did you next communicate with Mr. Forknall?

A. Monday morning, Monday, about 11 o'clock.

Q. Did you show the letter prior to that time to anybody?

A. No.

Q. You had taken it directly from your home to your office?

A. Yes.

Q. And showed it to no one? At 11 o'clock did I understand that Mr. Forknall came in? Was anybody else in your office when he came in?

A. Mr. Scarratt was in, not just inside my office, two rooms together. I have a small room like this, and then a large room is next to it, is used by Mr. Brennan and Mr. Scarratt, with the desk towards the front. These two gentlemen, both of them, were there I think Monday. I think they were on Tuesday. Mr. Scarratt was on Monday.

Q. Did you introduce Mr. Scarratt on Monday?

A. No, on Tuesday.

Q. When he came in on Monday did he go directly to your desk, in a private office?

A. Yes.

Q. Were you and he closeted in there?

A. We were.

Q. Was the door closed?

A. I am not sure.

Q. Do you know whether or not Mr. Scarratt could overhear any conversation that you had in there with him?

A. I doubt it. It is my habit when clients come in to close the door.

Q. What conversation did you have with Mr. Forknall that Monday morning relative to this letter?

A. We took this letter which was somewhat long.

Q. What form was it in then?

A. In longhand.
Q. In whose handwriting?
A. It was in mine.
Q. What did you then do?
A. We went over it, passage by passage, and there were some things there that Mr. Forknall thought ought to be cut out.

Q. What things did Mr. Forknall say ought to be cut out?

A. He says this passage there, this section that referred to something that Mr. Brimblecom did when I was running for the second time, the third time to the Legislature.

Q. There was some comment in the letter on the action of Mr. Brimblecom when you and he were in the primaries?

A. Yes.

Q. What did Mr. Forknall say to that?

A. He said Henry I think you will have to cut out everything that is in bearing whatever with the Jarvis-Brimblecom controversy.

Q. Was there no other comments made on any other passage?

A. Yes.

Q. What?

A. There was, the matter of disgracing his uniform.

Q. Were you a member of the State Guard?

A. I was not.

Q. Mr. Forknall was?

A. Yes.

Q. At the time that you are speaking of did there appear in your handwriting the phrase that this Mr. Brimblecom had 1919 disgraced his uniform, Police strike, was that phrase in the letter at this time?

A. Something like that, not exactly like that, in substance.

Q. Was the word disgraced in your handwriting there when you showed it to him?

A. I won't be positive.

Q. What conversation if any, did you have with him relative to that?

A. He said I wouldn't be specific about that. John has told me that he got into trouble in the State Guard, and I told him that Green told me, and I had heard it from others what the facts were as I understood them.

Q. I am asking about the conversation if any relative to the disgracing of uniform, relative to police strike.

A. Mr. Forknall suggested that that was good language.

Q. Disgrace his uniform—Mr. Forknall said was good language to leave in. You are positive of that?

A. I am.

Q. Was anything else commented on?

A. He said the whole thing is too long. Now cut it down and make the allegation short.

Q. Was there any other specific matters which you had in your handwriting which he said to leave in or take out?

A. I don't think there was.

Q. Are you positive that you went over item by item the various matters which appeared in this letter signed by Green?

A. I am.

A. No, not in the first conversation.

Q. Had anything been said about a person who was to sign the circulars?

A. No.

Q. Then at that time was anything said about who was to sign the circular?

A. Yes.

Q. What was said?

A. He said that Green would be a good man to sign it. He said I wouldn't sign it. He said it won't do for me to sign it. Why? Because if you sign it why it would be just as I said before about the Jarvis-Brimblecom controversy. It would be stronger if Green signed it.

Q. If you signed it it would look more like a personal attack than a campaign attack? Forknall is the man who suggested to you that Green was the man who would sign the letter?

A. I am sure that is so.

Q. Did he tell you why he wouldn't sign it himself?

A. I don't think he did.

Q. Did you ask him to sign it?

A. I don't think I did.

Q. Did you say anything to him that a barber in some part of the city might have no effect upon the voters of Newton, that you had better get some man of more or less prominence to sign that? Did you make any comment whatever upon getting a barber in some section of the city to sign it?

A. Only that someone would have to be responsible for it.

Q. Did he say that he had or hadn't had any conversation with Green as to whether he would sign the letter?

A. No.

Q. You are positive that the suggestion that you go to Green for the sending of a circular letter came from Forknall and not from yourself?

A. I am very sure that he was the one that suggested the name of Green.

Q. What did you next do? Is that all the conversation that you had with him on Monday?

A. That is the substance of it.

Q. What did you then do relative to the letter then?

A. I worked on the letter cutting it down, and it was practically in shape when Mr. Forknall came in the next day.

Q. Did you on Monday have an arrangement with Mr. Forknall to appear again on Tuesday?

A. I think so.

Q. Do you recall—did he say he would be back again on Tuesday, or did you say come in again, and see me on Tuesday?

A. I think I told him that I was going away on Wednesday, and he says why I am going away on Friday, and he says the thing, the work has got to be done pretty quickly, and particularly as there was another short letter that I was going to send out to a number of my friends on my own responsibility, over my own signature, yes.

Q. Did you take it home with you that night?

A. My impression is that—that I worked on it some that night.

Q. Did you show it to anybody or let anybody read it, or read it over to anybody before the next day?

A. I don't think so.

Q. Then as I understand it you went back into your office, and then did Mr. Forknall join you there? Did you communicate with Mr. Forknall during the morning the next day?

Q. At what time on Tuesday afternoon did Mr. Forknall come in?

A. I think it was about two o'clock in the afternoon.

Q. Who was in the office when he came in?

A. Not anybody.

Q. Mr. Brennan and Mr. Scarratt over in the corner?

A. Yes.

Q. Did you introduce Mr. Forknall to either or both of the gentlemen, and what did you say at the time?

A. I said Mr. Forknall I want you to meet a candidate for the senate. Mr. Scarratt, Mr. Forknall, Mr. Scarratt is a candidate for the House in whose campaign I am interested, then he met Mr. Brennan.

Q. Then what did you do then?

A. We looked over this letter.

Q. Where did you look at over this second letter?

A. We looked that over first, the second letter.

Q. The one that you were going to send out in your own name?

A. Yes.

Q. Then after that what did you do?

A. I told him what I had done towards bolting the other down, in my own office.

Q. Was the door closed then as you recall?

A. I presume so.

Q. Was Mr. Brennan or Mr. Scarratt present?

A. No.

Q. Did you discuss this in their presence, with Mr. Forknall at any time?

A. I didn't.

Q. When you went over this letter redrafted, what did he say then?

A. He said it is a lot better.

Q. Did you direct his attention to any particular phrase on that Tuesday?

A. No.

Q. Did he read it himself or did you read it?

A. I read it.

Q. Did he make any suggestion? Keep me out of it?

A. I didn't.

Q. Did you ask him why he said keep me out of it?

A. He said he was sending out his own literature and he says you go ahead, put it out yourself. I told him that there would be an item of expense. If there was going to be 5000 letters sent out it would cost $100 for postage, and he says well Miss Riddell will advance that until the money can be gotten in, I think, if you will speak to her. He says I am paying in almost $100, and he says I don't feel as though I could advance the money. I asked him if he couldn't advance the $100, and I told him I was going away the next day, and it would be better in every way if he could do it, and he says if Miss Riddell won't do it, send it to Jones.

Q. What Jones is that?

A. Harry L. Jones, that testified this morning.

Q. Had you had any conversation with Mr. Forknall about what Jones would be willing to do before?

A. Yes. He had expressed gratification on what Mr. Jones—that he would back him. Jones hadn't said a distinct amount.

Q. But you had informed Mr. Forknall that Mr. Jones would contribute to his campaign fund?

A. Yes.

Q. And Mr. Forknall had expressed pleasure to the fact?

A. Yes.

Q. Miss Riddell would have to have approximately $100 to send out the circulars, and Forknall said I am going away, and I haven't got the money, and you said you are going away and you can't pay it, and Forknall said have the bill go to Jones, and Jones will take care of it?

A. Yes.

Q. The suggestion that the bill go to Jones came from him, and not from you?

A. I am positive of that.

Q. If Miss Riddell wouldn't advance the money? Did you say anything to him about the fact that this was his literature, and why should not he put his signature on it?

A. No.

Q. Did he say anything about the thing being such a scandalous thing that he didn't want it to go out under his name, but he would like the results?

A. I think Mr. Forknall said that a candidate couldn't send out his own literature when there is a charge made against the other candidate. I understood that was the law.

Q. It was left that you were to take the thing to Miss Riddell and have her mimeograph it, and if she couldn't advance the money you were to get it thru Jones?

A. Yes.

Q. That suggestion came from Forknall?

A. Yes.

Q. At any time did Mr. Forknall say to you that no literature should go out which he hadn't first inspected and signed?

A. Never said that.

Q. He knew what this was, so that when he testified this morning that he said in your room that I don't want you to send out anything without my O K on it, and my O K is not on that letter, that is not so?

A. Yes.

Q. Is the form that the letter was finally distributed, the form that he saw it in your office the second time?

A. Yes, as to charges, and almost the identical words.

Q. What were the changes?

A. There were none, unless minor.

Q. Grammatical changes, rather than changes in substance?

A. For one thing there as he had seen them I wrote it up that evening—my stenographer was away.

Q. This is Tuesday evening that you wrote it up after the second time, after he had approved it? Have you any of the original drafts of the letter, of the circular?

A. I doubt if I have.

Q. Then after you wrote it up, you are positive that at no time on Tuesday did Mr. Forknall make any of the statements that he has made in the court here this morning, and you have heard—that that letter was not to go out without his O.K. on it?

A. Absolutely.

Q. Those statements are not what he made in your presence?

A. They are not.

Q. What did you do on Wednesday morning, if anything?

A. Either Tuesday night or Wednesday morning I called up Mr. Green at his house and told him that I was coming up there about this letter, and I told him that I would be up there about quarter of nine and he said alright. I will be there, and at quarter of nine I was there at his place.

Q. After he signed the letter what did you do with it?

A. I took the letter right into Boston, arriving there about 11 o'clock.

Q. Then what did you do with it?

A. I took it in to Miss Riddell.

Q. What did you say to Miss Riddell? Had you spoken to Miss Riddell prior to this time about doing some work for you, this particular work for you?

A. Yes.

Q. When had you conversation with her?

A. I think it was the day before.

Q. What had you said to her?

A. I think it was—there is to be a circular letter to go out, 5000 copies, and if she could handle it alright, and she said she could.

Q. Did you ask her for an estimate? When you took it back to her the next morning was there anything said by you to her about whom to charge it to?

A. I said Reuben Forknall campaign. She couldn't advance the money, the $100 for the postage. She said if it is a small matter of 5 or 10 dollars for postage why not to expect me to advance it. I told her that Mr. Forknall had made that suggestion.

Q. She didn't say to you that you ought not to advance it? You are positive that she said Mr. Forknall ought not to expect me to forward it? You are perfectly clear in your mind that Miss Riddell said to you Mr. Forknall ought not to expect me to advance the money?

A. Yes.

Q. Why should she say Mr. Forknall ought not to expect me to advance the money?

A. Because I had told her that it was Mr. Forknall's suggestion that she be willing to do it.

Q. What further conversation did you have with her?

A. I told her that if it was sent down to this place in Maine, if she sent a memorandum of it—and I said I will write Mr. Jones, too, and I said I am positive that it will come right back, and she would have plenty of time to send them out. Mr. Jones is a very wealthy man, and very generous, and could advance it alright.

Q. Had he intimated to you in any way that he would do it?

A. There was something in his letter, in a generous tone that he would do it. He is a prince of men in his generosity.

Q. Then what other conversation if any, did you have with Miss Riddell, about the circular letter?

A. I said well now, we are in a hurry on this case. I am going away on the 4.30 train, and I have got to get various items. I told her some of the things that I had got to get, and I want to see this before it goes out. I want to see the proof, and I want the girl spoke up and said I don't see how we can have it before half past three. I said I wish you could get it before that, and I said there are all these things, going away on my vacation.

Q. As a result of that did you get it?

A. I did.

Q. And approved it?

A. I did.

Q. And you left instructions as to the mailing of it or anything else? Had you furnished her with a list of the voters or people to whom they were to be sent.

A. Mr. Forknall did. Mr. Forknall had the names marked that were Republicans that they were to be sent to.

Q. Voting list?

A. Regular voting list.

Q. When did you get that from Mr. Forknall?

A. Mr. Forknall gave it to me the afternoon previous when he came over.

Q. What conversation did you have when he gave it to you?

A. I had asked him previously—it is a great waste of postage if these are sent to democrats, and he said I have got some lists marked up, and I'll bring them over. That is the part of the conversation I had forgotten.

Q. As a result of that conversation did he bring them over?

A. He did.

Q. To your office or Miss Riddell?

A. To my office.

Q. Those are the lists that he brought over that you furnished to Miss Riddell?

A. I think I have the original lists, not marked by me, but by Mr. Forknall.

Q. Then what did you do next, anything further in the letter?

A. I realize that I had no right to make any changes in any allegation against a man. Miss Riddell says that that letter comes too close to the top and too close to the bottom, and I said that where it says in that letter, Reuben Forknall is not the man to go into a contest of this kind unless there is some reason for it. Reuben Forknall is not the man to go into a campaign like this. And into a campaign to contest a man's return to the House, after the name of Reuben Forknall there had been in the original letter, former Chairman of the Republican City Committee, and member of the Newton Board of Aldermen, that was just a description, might strike that out. I struck that out.

Q. Then did you have any further conversation with Miss Riddell as to the disposition of the letter or instructions as to the sending out of the letter?

A. I told her that they should be sent out Friday early enough, because I don't believe in the eleventh hour campaign, such as I have been the victim of twice.

Q. Is that all that you had to say to her?

A. Yes. I told her that all those letters should be mailed by Thursday night, no I think it was before Thursday night, Wednesday being the first. That was it. It was that they should be sent out before Thursday night.

Q. Did you then go away on your vacation?

A. I did.

Q. Did you after that time have any conversation with Mr. Forknall?

A. Not until after the primaries.

Q. Did you see Mr. Forknall on Tuesday?

A. No, I think it was Thursday.

Q. Did he call you up on Tuesday when you got back—by the way the primaries were on the 17th weren't they—this letter went out on the first six days before the primaries?

A. Yes.

Q. When you got back to your office did you find any communication that Mr. Forknall wanted to see you?

A. No.

Q. Did you see Mr. Forknall the 17th, on the day of the primary?

A. No, but I telephoned him the night before.

Q. Labor day night?

A. Yes, I called up and I said Reuben, how is everything going, and he says well, I don't know, pretty bad I think. Says there is quite a good deal of criticism of that circular letter that has come to my attention.

Q. Which had come to his attention, the letter or the criticism?

A. The criticism.

Q. Is that all the conversation as you recall it?

A. I think so.

Q. Did he criticize you for sending out the circular letter in any way whatever?

A. No.

Q. Did he express any surprise that the letter was sent out?

A. No, he knew that the letter was sent out.

Q. Did he say anything to you on that Monday in that the sending out of that letter was a shock to him, or that he hadn't wanted it to go out?

A. No, no just said that way that it had evoked some criticism.

Q. But in no way whatsoever expressed any disturbance, any ignorance of the fact that the letter had been sent?

A. None whatever.

Q. Might have disturbance with the effects, but not sent out?

A. Yes.

Q. Did he make any comments about this letter at the time?

A. He didn't.

Q. Did he later make any comments about this letter?

A. No.

Q. At whose suggestion did you write soliciting funds for Mr. Forknall's campaign if you did solicit funds for Mr. Forknall's campaign?

A. Mr. Forknall.

Q. You recall what that suggestion made to you was?

A. He said that if that circular letter was going out that I would have to raise the money for it for him from his friends.

Q. From his friends?

A. Yes. From those friends that we spoke of.

Q. And as a result of that conversation did you write the letter, among whom are those who testified this morning?

A. I did.

Q. What moneys have you received by that?

A. I have received so far $50 from Mr. Rich, and $40 from Mr. Emery.

Q. Did you go to Mr. Retan's office to obtain a subscription from him?

A. I did.

Q. Did you tell him what you wanted to use the money for?

A. I started in to tell him, and he says I don't care what it is for.

Q. Did you make out a receipt for the money which he gave you?

A. I did.

Q. Have you that original receipt with you?

A. I think so. It is the same as that one he read. Those are the words.

Q. What was the reason for your going back to him and taking back to him—and taking back the money?

A. Why, he said that a man had told him that a contribution had got to go direct to the candidate or to a committee. I told him I was sure that that was not so, and he said that was his information, and I told I have got the Statutes of 1913 that I was familiar with, and he went up and I showed it to him. That was Monday about half past eleven, and he gave me that money. Then afterwards in view of what he had said I went up to the Secretary of State's office, and I told him to show me an individual return, the different forms of return. They told me they didn't have any individual forms of returns except for the candidate, otherwise it would have to be by the committee. I thought I was in honor bound to take it back, and give it back to him.

Q. Did you say anything to Mr. Emery or Mr. Rich about their right to give money to anybody but the candidate?

A. I have got Rich's money and Emery's money.

Q. Who paid the bill?

A. As long as Mr. Jones paid the bill at Mr. Forknall's suggestion, I believe that with the understanding that Mr. Jones was going to be reimbursed, at least Mr. Jones told me that he had that understanding, anybody would have that understanding. I believe I have a perfect right at the time to turn it over to Mr. Jones, but as long as there is any question I am going to take it at your suggestion and giving it to Mr. Forknall or anyone else.

ALDERMEN MEET

Most of the time at the meeting of the aldermen on Monday night was spent in recess while various committees of the board acted upon several matters of importance.

President Harriman presided and all but Alderman Hickey were present.

There was a long list of hearings with but little public interest in them. A protest was made by Mr. Harrington against the request of the Newton Vulc. and Tire Co. to sell gasolene at 554 Commonwealth avenue. Residents of Avalon road and Beacon street, Waban, appeared at hearings on the proposed location of a sewer pumping plant to relieve the Avalon road district. Mr. S. T. Douglas favored the sewer. Mr. R. T. Fowler offered to give the city another location further along Beacon street, and objected to both of the locations on which hearings were held and Mr. T. J. Klockner opposed the location near his house.

After hearings these petitions were granted. Edison and telephone poles on Dorset road, Wm. Harvey for private garage at 1670 Washington street, and Wm. A. Brown for private garage on Aspen avenue. Other hearings were held on petitions P. L. Palmer to keep gasolene at 30 Winchester street, John A. Waldo to keep gasolene at 30 Hobart road, for widening Institution avenue at Beacon street, for widening Walnut street to 70 feet to Page road, for widening Maple street, ward 7, and of Robert Curran for private garage on Church street.

Messrs. Wm. A. Leighton and E. E. Savory in favor of a sewer in Willis-ton road, Auburndale.

Mayor Childs sent in recommendations for $400 for temporary clerks for Assessors, $1500 for extra work of registration of voters due to the women's vote, $200 for burial of soldiers, $25 for shock absorbers for Health Dept. automobile, and $4000 for Sewer House connections, all of which were approved. The Mayor also sent in the petition of the policemen for one day off in eight, of the firemen for the adoption of the two platoon system, for the improvement of Woodward street, and appointing Howard W. Henry a public weigher.

On report of the Street Commissioner sidewalk assessments were levied on Wolcott street, Windermere road and Playstead road, street sprinkling and moth assessments approved and a sewer assessment levied on Dunstan street. The Street Commissioner reported the cost of building Eden avenue at $3791.16 and Windermere road at $4144.23.

Petitions of Arthur & Rivers for an express license, of T. D. Murphy, Chas. Scipione and D. Bradley Rich for auctioneer licenses and of Barney Peters for a taxi cab license were granted. Petitions of the Edison and Telephone Co. for a relocation of pole on Waverley avenue, of the Edison Co. for relocation of pole on Prospect street, of the Edison Co. for attachments on Centre street, Duncklee street, Fisher avenue, Parsons street, and Lothrop street and of the Telephone Co. for attachments on Fayette street and Bullough park were granted.

These petitions for private garages were also approved. C. G. Farpum, 1885 Commonwealth avenue, Edward L. Smith, 288 Lexington street, Elmer J. Mann, 31 Evergreen avenue, Michael McDonald, 162 Warren street, Charles E. Abbott at 14 and 22 Hobart road, and P. J. Marden, Pettee street.

Petitions were received for private garages from R. W. Lavers, Washburn street, Daniel J. Holmes, at 22 and 24 Mayflower road and Harry Stone on Priscilla road, for sewer in Colbert road, sewer in Prospect place, for sidewalks on Algonquin road, for sidewalks on Brookside avenue for the laying out of Hawthorne street and of Neil McIntosh for right of way over pumping station land.

Hearings were assigned for Sept. 27 on removal of fountain junction

Walnut and Forest streets, for sidewalk on Brookside avenue, for laying out of Mason road and for sewer in Upland road. Sewers were ordered in Colbert road, Mill street and Nevada street. Alderman Carter voting against the last order. Sidewalks were ordered laid on Chase street, $1600 authorized for widening of Institution avenue and Beacon street and $5500 voted for land damages on Walnut street which was widened to 70 feet to Page road. The pay of Election clerks was fixed at $12 per day.

Speaking of hotel orchestras, it is a pleasure to visit the Hotel Westminster just to hear the musicians perform, under the leadership of Jacques Rennard. To those who love to dance, the music is simply irresistible. It's different, too—something indescribably fascinating about the selection of airs that become immediately popular when played by this orchestra. M. Rennard is a musician and knows how to produce the best possible effects from his men. It is understood his orchestra will continue as the chief drawing card of the hotel the coming season, which fact will be appreciated by the throngs of people who make the Westminster their headquarters for dinners and dancing.

MORGAN—GALLAGHER

The marriage is announced of Miss Elizabeth Frances Gallagher of Clark road, West Newton, to Mr. Francis J. Morgan of Taylor street, Waltham. The wedding took place last Sunday evening at St. Bernard's Church, West Newton, the ceremony being performed by Father Farrell.

The bride wore a gown of Duchess satin trimmed with pearls, a veil of lace caught with orange blossoms and a diamond brooch the gift of the groom. She carried a bouquet of lilies-of-the-valley and orchids.

The maid of honor was Mrs. Mathias Connelly of West Newton. She wore a gown of chiffon tulle of turquoise blue color trimmed with tulle. The bridesmaid, Miss Mary A. Gallagher of West Newton wore a jade lace gown and a black lace hat trimmed with ostrich. She also wore a diamond ring the gift of the groom. She carried Killarney roses.

A reception at the home of the bride followed the ceremony with the house being tastefully decorated with potted plants, ferns, roses, and lilies. Lang's orchestra furnished the music.

After an automobile trip to Mont-real, Mr. and Mrs. Morgan will be at home in October at 46 Jerome avenue, West Newton.

TRIBUTE TO THE PEN.

The pen, like the sword, has a dark side to its history. Not only has it created a good deal of rubbish, but it has incited anarchy, sedition and hatred. But to the pen we are indebted for all the books of the world. It has enabled poets to sing to us, fictionists to charm us, philosophers and men of science to share with us their valuable knowledge; it gives us the Bible, it inspired civilization. It is a mighty agent "Beneath the rule of men entirely great."

Come to the Library and read about boys and girls your own age in other countries. Many boys and girls have already made pleasant acquaintances among the "Twin" books. OGILVIE-CLARK

A most attractive wedding took place Sunday, Sept. 15, when Miss Bertha Maude Clarke of Newport, R. I., was married to Mr. Peter Lewis Ogilvie of Hatfield Point, N. B. The ceremony took place at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Fred A. Clarke, 248 Tremont street, Newton, in the bay window of the living room beneath a bower of gladioli and autumn flowers.

The bride carried a bouquet of white asters and looked charming in a gown of white satin with an over drapery of Georgette banded with white satin. The veil was caught with lilies-of-the-valley, the double ring service was used, the Rev. Charles W. Brashares of the Methodist Church, Newton, officiating. The bride was given away by her brother, Mr. Fred A. Clarke, of Newton. Mrs. Leroy W. Baxter of Providence, only sister of the bride, was matron of honor. She wore pearl gray silk and carried pink asters. The groom was attended by Dr. Leroy W. Baxter of Providence. The wedding march from Lohengrin was played by Miss Mildred D. Baxter of Providence, niece of the bride. A reception was held after the ceremony which was largely attended by relatives and friends of the bride from Providence, Newport, and Jamestown. A supper was served by Mrs. Fred A. Clarke, assisted by Mrs. Emma A. Baxter of Providence. After a honeymoon in Canada, Mr. and Mrs. Ogilvie will live at Hatfield's Point, N. B.

Mr. Green's Testimony

TUESDAY

Mr. Green told of making an appointment to meet Jarvis at his barber shop and of reading him a letter which he took out of his pocket while he cut his hair. He remembered suggesting that the charge about disgracing his uniform was "rather strong" and that Jarvis had replied "we will back it up." As he finished cutting the hair, another customer came in. The stenographer's report continues as follows:—

Just as this man sat in the chair, he (Jarvis) says, sign that, and I simply says—I didn't say much of anything. I pulled a pencil out of my pocket like this, signed the name. He took the letter, and went off. I don't believe I wrote anything else on it. I don't recall writing anything different than the name, nothing else. I never thought anything more about the letter, until one Friday morning someone came in the shop, and says what is that that you sent out. I said what is it. He pulled a letter like this, and says like that. I read that thru. I nearly had a shock. I really didn't know what I was doing, and thru the day I was very busy, and every little while someone came in and spoke of this letter. I was very nervous. I didn't know what to do. He said he was going away. I went down to the house, and the first thing I did was to call Mr. Forknall, and tell him that it was an awful letter to send out, and while I admitted that I signed it certainly wouldn't have if I had known. It was a terrible letter, and I wouldn't have signed it. I asked Mr. Forknall and he thought it was terrible. I asked him if he had sent it, and he said he had not. He said he didn't. Then I asked his advice as to what I had better do. He said he didn't know what he could do about it. Well we rang off. I should say that was about half past eight in the evening. I was going around the house.

I didn't know what to do. I felt it was such a mean thing to do on my part. I thought something had to be done to repair the damage if there was any damage. I called up Mr. Brimblecom. I believe it was about 10 o'clock. I tried to get the Graphic Office. I waited a while. My wife says: you go to bed. You look like a crazy man. I said no, I couldn't go to bed. I tried to get Mr. Brimblecom at the house. I called him up, and asked him if he had read it. He said yes. They told me it is all over Newton. The letter is all over Newton and Newtonville as well. And I says I am sorry if I am the cause of any trouble to you, and I said I will try and repair anything that I have done, if it is possible, and I said is your paper gone to press, and he said yes, and I said is there anything that you can do thru your paper and he said no, there is hardly time now. The paper has gone to press. He asked me if I knew what I was signing. I thought it was simply an endorsement for Mr. Forknall. We used to be in the State Guard together, and I thought it was alright to sign the paper for him. That is what I told Mr. Brimblecom, and if there is anything I can do for Mr. Brimblecom or Forknall I would be glad to do it. I never did anything more about it. Mr. Brimblecom said it was too late to go to press.

Q. Did you see Mr. Jarvis after that?

A. Yes, Mr. Jarvis called me up one day. That was after the primaries, and the first word he said was that was a great victory, and I said great victory, nothing. The idea that you sent that letter out, that letter disgraced me all over the city. He said that is alright, we will back up everything the letter states. That is causing me a lot of talk all over the city.

Q. Did you ask how the letter happened to be sent out?

A. No, I haven't asked him that question. I don't remember just what took place, but after I got the summons to appear here I called him up and stated the facts to him. I told him that I had received a summons to appear in court as a witness, as there was going to be an investigation on it, and he says what do you know about that, that is funny, I don't see any need of that, and he said, however we will engage counsel for you. He may have said I, I don't know. Last Sunday morning he came up to the house with I suppose a lawyer.

Q. Who was the man do you know?

A. He introduced him as Mr. Goding.

Q. Had you ever seen him before?

A. No, I hadn't seen him, and we talked that letter over. I told him it was a pretty mean thing to do, and I says it is funny that you should pick me out as the victim of this letter, and he says well you were somewhat interested in Mr. Forknall, and I said all very well, but not to that extent. I said that before the lawyer. We talked the matter over. If you engage Mr. Goding or anyone else I shall have an attorney too, you know. I won't take a chance with this matter with anyone else. They said alright, and picked up their hats and went out.

Q. Did Mr. Goding offer to act as counsel for you?

A. No.

Q. Did Mr. Jarvis say anything about having him to act as counsel for you?

A. Yes, they came together.

Q. Did he introduce him as a lawyer?

A. He told me afterwards that Mr. Goding was a lawyer, a very keen man, and that is his business.

Q. Was anything said at the time about who would have to pay for his services?

A. No, he intimated that he would pay for his services over the telephone.

Q. Have you told all the conversation that you had with him that Sunday?

A. Yes.

Q. Was anything said at the time about who sent out the circular letter, who paid for it?

A. No, I didn't ask him who sent the letter out, or paid for it. I remember Mr. Brimblecom asking me as to who paid for the circulation of the letter. I said I certainly did not pay for it.

Q. Do you know who sent it out?

A. No.

Q. Have you learned since that time who paid for it, or sent it out?

A. No.

Q. Do you know who was working with Mr. Jarvis if anybody was?

A. No.

Q. Calling your attention a moment to the various charges that are made in the letter against Mr. Brimblecom, I would like to ask you if you know whether Mr. Brimblecom received $500 for report on City Employees' petition for increase?

A. I know nothing about it. I don't remember seeing that.

Q. Do you remember in Mrs. Fawcett's campaign whether he called Deacon Nathan Heard of Eliot Church, a liar?

A. No.

Q. Do you know whether he challenged the vote of Mr. Allen C. Emery?

A. No.

Q. You don't know anything about that?

A. About the challenge, yes. I remember something about that. Mr. Emery during one of the campaigns between Mr. Jarvis and Mr. Brimblecom, Mr. Emery sent out a letter to the effect that Mr. Brimblecom had challenged his vote.

Q. You had knowledge of that allegation?

A. I had received one of those letters myself thru the mail.

Q. Do you know that he had lost his head and made unseemly attacks on Michael Chirug at Masonic Hall?

A. No.

Q. Do you know anything to show that he had disgraced his uniform?

A. No.

Q. Had any member of the Legislature said to you that Brimblecom made the worst record of anyone in the City of Newton?

A. I don't remember anyone ever saying that to me.

Q. Did anyone ever say anything like that to you, member of the Legislature? Did Mr. Jarvis ever describe him as that to you?

A. I don't believe he ever did.

Q. Do you know whether or not Mr. Brimblecom voted for the Maternity Benefits Bill?

A. I don't know that he had voted for the Maternity Benefits Bill. Mr. Abbott Rice told me that it was, one day when I happened to be in Boston.

Q. Did you know that Mr. Brimblecom met him at the store, I spoke of it myself. I saw in the paper where Mr. Rice was making a fight against it, and spoke about Mr. Brimblecom voting for that Bill.

Q. You did know of your own knowledge that he voted for that bill?

A. Only what Mr. Rice said.

Q. Did you know how he had voted on the Sunday Base Ball Bill?

A. No.

Q. You don't know whether he did or not?

A. No.

Q. Do you know of your own knowledge whether he was working for the creation of the Recess Party in the Legislature?

A. Not of my own knowledge.

Q. You have heard rumors of it?

A. I had heard that there was such a bill pending, and that he had voted for it.

WEDNESDAY

I saw Mr. Forknall another night, and he and I—he had his automobile with him, and Mr. Chapman. They happened to be in the shop. He may have come there purposely. I don't know, but he happened to be in the barber shop at the time. When we got through we rode down to my house, Mr. Chapman, Mr. Forknall, and myself. We sat there in the living-room.

Q. It was then that the letter had been signed?

A. I had then signed the letter.

Q. The letter hadn't been sent out then at the time Mr. Forknall, you, and Mr. Chapman were down in your house?

A. The letter had been signed, but not sent out. I had no thought of the letter at the time. I thought it was such a small matter.

Q. You knew that you had signed the letter?

A. Oh, yes, without any question.

Q. What conversation did you have then?

A. Mr. Forknall showed all the literature that he had, and outlined his campaign. I am going to send this out. Mr. Chapman and I looked over everyone of the pieces of literature.

Q. Did you say anything about the letter that you had signed?

A. I didn't tell it.

Q. You were discussing the campaign literature at that time?

A. We didn't discuss the letter at all.

Q. You told Mr. Forknall at that time that Mr. Jarvis had been down to your shop, and that you had signed a letter in behalf of his campaign?

A. I simply spoke of it as though it was not of any importance. I simply spoke about the letter.

Q. What did he reply to you?

A. He didn't seem to be at all excited, or seem to think it was anything important.

Q. Did you ask him if he had seen the letter?

A. No, I am reasonably sure.

Q. Didn't you ask him what he thought about the letter that you had signed?

A. No, no talk about it.

Q. But you were looking at all the other campaign literature that was going out?

A. Yes.

Q. But that letter was not among the literature?

A. His campaign literature was in postcard form as near as I saw. I don't believe that I saw anything different. I suggested that he get some cards out, and I would put them in the shop, and Mr. Chapman coincided with me.

Q. You had no conversation about this letter?

A. Only very very little. Only that I stated that I signed the letter.

Q. Didn't Mr. Forknall say anything to you about the letter you had signed in his behalf?

A. No, I don't believe he did.

Q. That was the first time that you told him?

A. No.

Q. He expressed no surprise?

A. No.

Q. Made no comment?

A. No.

Q. Merely said you signed the letter today on your behalf, which Mr. Jarvis brought down for you to sign?

A. Yes.

Q. Did he ask you anything about the contents of it, in size? Didn't you say that it was pretty strong language about disgracing a man's uniform?

A. Yes. I felt that Mr. Jarvis was a man of honor.

Q. You knew that you had signed a letter with those extraordinary charges in it?

A. No, well I could say yes, I don't want to be made a fool of it.

Q. That is up to you to do that, not me. You as a member of the State Guard knew what it meant to say of a fellow soldier, what it meant to disgrace a uniform?

A. Yes.

Q. And yet it made no impression on you, did it?

A. It did to that extent that it was an extraordinary phrase to be put in a letter.

Q. When you spoke to Mr. Forknall and told him that you had signed a campaign letter that is all you said about it?

A. Yes.

Q. And he made no comment about it?

A. No.

Q. And you made no comment about the extraordinary charges in it?

A. No, I never gave it a thought. I felt that whatever Mr. Jarvis said...

MR. JARVIS' TESTIMONY

Q. At any time have you discussed with Mr. Forknall the question of filing a return of expenditures made for or on his behalf?

A. No. I have been trying a case almost all the time since then.

Q. Did you know what the limit of expenditure was that a candidate could make in the primaries?

A. Yes. I understand the limit a person can pay in the primary is $300 in a triple district as this is, and $100 where it is just simply one district.

Q. What was your intention with the letter that you sent out, your own letter?

A. I didn't think that that need be accounted for in that understanding of the law, but Mr. Forknall is within the $300 alright anyway.

Q. You heard him testify this morning that he had $239 himself.

A. If he has he is outside of it but what he told me was that he was expending $100, and in that case he would be way within it.

Q. Have you informed him at any time of contributions?

A. Yes, showed him the check.

Q. When did you show him any check?

A. William T. Rich check.

Q. What comments did he make?

A. That is generous.

Q. Did you say anything to him about his having to account for monies received on his behalf, have you said to him?

A. No, but I supposed he would. I wasn't going to spend anything except this $175, which has been advanced, practically that.

Q. After you returned the check of $15 to Mr. Retan, did you make any efforts to return the money to either of these other men?

A. You told me to hold it. Practically after I saw Mr. Retan I went into this case that I have spoken of.

Q. I thought I said in my office that if you have any checks in your possession you had better keep them until tomorrow. Have you had any conversation with Mr. Retan?

A. Yes.

Q. When?

A. I saw him on one occasion. I told him that I thought that there were several men that would help out.

Q. Did you have any conversation with him in the South Station last night?

A. I did.

Q. What conversation did you have with him?

A. Why, he asked me what had been done in the morning. I had a paper then. I said practically nothing, that it had been continued.

Q. Did you tell him that you had been down and talked with me about the matter?

A. I think I did.

Q. Are there any others who have paid you money, or made any promises of paying money that you haven't mentioned?

A. There is one man that hasn't actually paid it. There is one man whom Mr. Jones thought would give. Mr. Locke. I had one or two men in mind myself, that I spoke to Mr. Jones about. Of course as it is now he is in more than he had intended to give—$50.

Q. I think there are no further questions.

NEWTON MASS., FRIDAY, SEPTEMBER 24, 1920.

TERMS, $2.50 A YEAR

REFUSES DEMOCRATIC NOMINATION

Framingham, Sept. 23, 1920.
To the Voters of First Middlesex Senatorial District.

I sincerely thank those Republicans who so kindly voted for me in the recent primary contest. The personal compliment of many Democratic friends, who by voting for me on stickers assured me of their party nomination by my mere acceptance will ever be appreciated by me.

I shall ever treasure the evidence of personal friendship and loyalty of over Eight Hundred male and female voters, Republicans, Democrats and Independents of Natick and Framingham who voluntarily signed Independent nomination papers in my behalf.

Again I sincerely thank you one and all. I must however respectfully decline to accept the Democratic or Independent Nominations. As a candidate in the recent Republican Primaries I am in honor bound and will loyally support the Republican Nominee.

This is no time for internal differences within the Republican Party. It is rather a time to forget real or fancied grievances and pull together for Party success. All citizens who pride themselves on their Americanism should march shoulder to shoulder to the polls and vote for the Republican Candidates national and state. The control of our government should be restored to the Republican Party Candidates who will favor sane, sound and humane legislation in order that the industrial, economic and social conditions of our Country shall be placed on such a firm and lasting foundation that the United States once more will be the one nation of nations. That asks nothing; That receives nothing; yet is able, ready and willing to give its all for the cause of justice and humanity the world over.

QUESTIONNAIRE QUESTIONED

Mr. William C. Deuschle of Oakland street, Newton, was before U. S. Commissioner Hayes at the Federal Building, Boston, Monday, charged with falsifying his questionnaire by which he was given deferred classification by the local draft board. Mr. Deuschle was arrested Aug. 31st on a warrant charging him with making false statements in claiming he was supporting his father and mother, and his sister and brother-in-law. Mr. and Mrs. Lester Hiltz. He was defended by Mr. E. B. Church of this city. Two members of the Newton Local Exemption board, Judge Wm. F. Bacon and Mr. L. D. G. Bentley testified as to the action of the Draft board. Mr. William Deuschle, father of the defendant testified that he could not attend to the business of Paxtons successfully and that he had to depend on his son. Assessor John W. Murphy and Mr. Howard S. Hiltz of Newton Highlands, father of Mr. Lester Hiltz, now deceased, also appeared. The case was continued until this morning.

lation in order that the industrial, economic and social conditions of our Country shall be placed on such a firm and lasting foundation that the United States once more will be the one nation of nations. That asks nothing; That receives nothing; yet is able, ready and willing to give its all for the cause of justice and humanity the world over.

Respectfully yours,

EDWARD L. McMANUS,
117 Union Avenue, Framingham.

Representative Brimblecom Is Grateful.

I greatly appreciate the sympathy and offers of assistance which my friends all over the city have extended to me during the trying times of the past two weeks and I am most grateful for the vindication which has been given me by the unanimous nomination for representative by the Republican city committee.

J. C. Brimblecom.

EQUIPPED TO RULE OCEAN

Monster That Lived 100,000 Years Ago Must Have Been a Terror to Other Fishes.

In the National museum at Washington is exhibited the skeleton of a zeuglodon—a monster which in life was seventy feet long and which must have been ruler of the seas during a bygone epoch. There is good reason to believe that this alarming creature dates back fewer than 100,000 years, says a bulletin.

With an enormously long tail and powerful swimming paddles, the zeuglodon must have been able to swim at the speed of an express train, and its great alligatorlike head was armed with huge carnivorous teeth.

It was manifestly a ferocious and predatory brute and presumably fed on fishes and porpoise. The head was four feet long and in the front part of each jaw were eight teeth for seizing and tearing, which were supplemented by a series of saw edged cutting teeth at the back.

The zeuglodon was a mammal, related to modern whales. They must in their time have been very numerous, judging from the quantities of their bones dug up in Mississippi and Alabama, where in places there are so many as to interfere with plowing. Farm walls are built of them.

Apparently the creatures, which are denizens of warm seas, died and were washed up into shallow waters that afterward became dry land. Drifting sands covered their bones, preserving the latter to some extent. Their teeth (loose in the jaws like those of alligators) are found scattered about in the neighborhood of the bones.

ERROR COST LAWYER CLIENT

Addressed as "Three-Fourths" Smith, Man Proved to Be All There in His Anger.

One gathers from Judge Shute's book, "The Real Diary of the Worst Farmer," that a lawyer turned farmer has some difficulties in giving the necessary attention to his legal work. For instance:

"I was much grieved to lose a client in a most curious way. I have recently installed a new typewriting machine in my office. The presiding goddess of the machine had written a letter from dictation to a Mr. J. Smith, a gentleman who in early life had suffered the loss of one leg at the hip, and who is, not unnaturally, very sensitive about his misfortune. The young lady was unused to the new machine and struck the figure 3/4 instead of the initial 'J,' both in the address in the letter and on the envelope.

"I had been absorbed in working out a decision in the peas question, and when the letter was brought to me for signature did not notice the error and the letter was sent, bearing my sign manual, directed

Mr. 3/4 Smith,

N. H.

"Today I received a letter from the maddest man in the United States, and containing material calculated to curl my hair and bring out goose pimples all over me. I explained as well as I could, but I feel sure he will never believe I did not do it intentionally.—New York Evening Post.

Ventilation.

Through persistent education the why and wherefore of this great health necessity has been explained; still to the many, air is air, and that is all there is to it.

Ventilation does not simply mean "open wide the windows," but it should be done scientifically, especially in a sick room. To properly ventilate, the air must be kept in motion. The entrance opening for fresh air should be larger than the one for exit. If these openings are directly opposite, the motion will take place without doing the room any good. If there are two windows in the room, one should be opened from the top and the other from the bottom. For the general daytime room the temperature should be 68 degrees and at night 65. A bathroom should be kept at 70. For the sick room of pneumonia patients and several other diseases, of course, the temperature should be kept as low as possible without having the patient in a draught.

Worse Than Modern Drill.

In ancient China a man suffering from toothache proceeded in this wise: He repaired to the Chinese doctor, who was armed with a lot of sharp needles of various sizes and lengths, and his method of treatment was and still is known as acupuncture. This operation consisted of the insertion of these needles into various parts of the body, the choice points of selection being 26 for toothache and six others for inflammation of the gums. The depth to which the needles were inserted is said to have been an important point in the operation. This puncturing was associated with cauterization.

Bees Swifter Than Pigeons.

There is a story to the effect that a farmer in Westphalia laid a wager that 12 bees of his, released at a distance of three miles from their hives, would travel as rapidly as a like number of pigeons over the same course. The first bee, properly powdered for purposes of identification, did, as a matter of fact, arrive at its hive a quarter of a minute before the coming of the first pigeon to its cot; and there were three other bees that came in before the second pigeon arrived.

ABSURD NAMES WORK HARM

May Be Witty, But They Too Frequently Tend to Put Community in Disrepute.

Freakish and absurd names given to communities, villages and counties by some waggish wit in the primitive times, have a way of persisting, clinging to the community, so that it is most difficult to get rid of them when a new people have succeeded to residence there. Some of these absurd names are so ridiculous they harm the community, tending at all times to put it in disrepute, make it a jest and byword.

All over the country are to be found places where the old-time wit left his contribution of harmful levity, against which the community struggles. In the northern part of Missouri was a little community that was given, in the days before the war, the rather startling name of Burnshirt. The name grew out of an incident that took place when some big-game hunters were encamped at the settlement. The name appealed to the risibilities of the community and for two generations it was compelled to bear that name. It had a small degree of comfort from the fact that a lesser community, hard by, had won the name of Pinhook. Hoopole township in Posey county, Indiana, is quite the most widely known of any township in the Hoosier state, yet strangers might not be induced to locate there because of the attractiveness or promise found in the name.—Ohio State Journal.

LIKE RAINBOW IN THE SEA

Gloriously Tinted Water That Washes Bermuda's Shores Is an Ever-Fascinating Marvel.

Hundreds of miles from any coast, surrounded on every side by the restless surges of the great Atlantic—a mere speck in a waste of sea—lies Bermuda. While not strictly one of the West Indies, yet its fauna and flora, its products and its formation, are so similar to many of the Antilles that we may well consider it as a West Indian island gone astray, and set down—or rather pushed up—a thousand miles and more from its fellows.

If the ship arrives at Bermuda by daylight there is ample opportunity for the visitor to view the island as the vessel steams slowly along the northern shores and threads her way through the tortuous channel between sharp-fanged reefs toward Hamilton. Perhaps nowhere else in all the world is there such gloriously tinted water. Indigo where deep; azure and sapphire nearer shore, opalescent turquoise in the shallows, and marbled with royal purple and amethyst where reefs and corals dot the white sand of its bed, the sea that laps Bermuda's shores is an ever-changing, ever-fascinating marvel; a thing of wondrous beauty impossible to describe in words or to reproduce in pigments.—A. Hyatt Verrill in "The Book of the West Indies."

Color-Blindness.

It may come as a surprise to many to learn that fewer than fifty-five people in every thousand are more or less color-blind. The commonest form of color-blindness is not—as is usually supposed—the inability to distinguish red and green. That affects one person in fifty-five. The most usual symptom is to get mixed between blue and green. One person in sixty cannot distinguish between brown and green. Color-blindness is more common among educated than among uneducated people, and is far more usual among men than women. Only about one woman in a thousand is badly color-blind. A very odd fact is that musicians are more liable to this affection than any other class or profession. Illness may cause color-blindness. There is a case of a woman who became entirely color-blind after a form of our disease, while a signalman who had suffered from lock-jaw or tetanus became equally unable to distinguish color.

Real Sea Serpents.

The Indian ocean and the waters of the tropical Pacific are inhabited by a great number of wholly aquatic, veritable sea serpents that possess deadly fangs, and sometimes swim in schools of countless thousands. These snakes have a paddle-like tail to assist them in swimming. An offshoot of this species is the sub-family containing the formidable cobras and their allies, according to Raymond Ditmars, curator of reptiles at the New York zoo, who are treacherously deceptive in appearance. All of the very large serpents are members of a single family—the Boidae. None is poisonous, and the members of this family kill their prey by constriction.

Ants Guard Trees.

The Cecropias are remarkable trees, very widely distributed throughout the tropics. Their slender trunks are crowned with four leaves at the ends of the branches. A few active ants run continually along the branches and leaves, but if the tree is shaken slightly an army of ants rush out by small apertures, ready for a savage assault on the intruder. This is the most terrible guardian the tree has retained to protect it from its most formidable enemy the "leaf cutter" ant. The defenders rarely leave their retreat, where they live on small whitish egg-shaped bodies about one-twelfth of an inch long, known as Mueller's corpuscles.

DEATH OF MRS. DRAKE

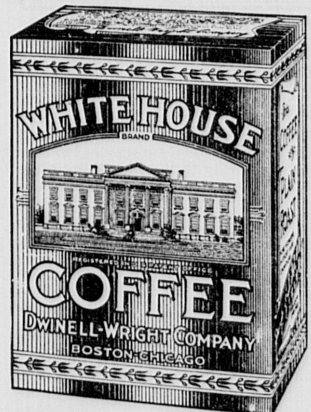

Mrs. Maria Upham Drake, who died last week Thursday in Boston, was for a number of years a well known resident of Newton Centre.

Some thirty years ago she was an eloquent lecturer to women under the auspices of the Women's Christian Temperance Union. She was a friend of and co-worker with Miss Frances Willard, and sometimes spoke from the same platform. Mrs. Drake said little of political prohibition. Her specialty was the family. She was a leader in urging instruction by mothers in temperance and purity in the family.

Mrs. Drake was born in 1848 in a missionary family among the Cherokee Indians (now Oklahoma). She was educated in Fairfax Vt. Academy, Salem Normal School, where she was a teacher, and also was graduated in the Chautauqua College course. She was a great reader of poetry, ethics and philosophy, and thoroughly followed current events. She was a writer of ability, and published in different papers, some sixty poems and many articles in prose. Mrs. Drake is survived by her husband, J. McE. Drake, of Perry Mason Company, publishers of the Youth's Companion; her son Durrant Drake, professor of philosophy, Vassar College, and her daughter, Dorothy Drake, a college graduate, now assistant to the editor of the Newton Graphic.

SURE THAT ANIMALS DREAM

Eminent Authorities Have Gone on Record, Though It Has Been Subject of Dispute.

Aristotle's history of animals declares that horses, oxen, sheep, goats, dogs and all viviparous quadrupeds dream. Pliny, in his natural history specifies the same animals. Buffon describes the dreams of animals. Macnash calls attention to the fact that horses neigh and rear in their sleep, and affirms that cows and sheep, especially at the period of rearing their young, dream.

Darwin, in the "Descent of Man," says that "dogs, cats, horses and probably all the higher animals, even birds, as is stated on good authority, have vivid dreams, and this is shown by their movements and voice."

George John Romanes, in his "Mental Evolution in Animals," says that the fact that dogs dream is proverbial, and quotes Seneca and Lucretius, and furnishes proof from Dr. Lauder Lindsay, an eminent authority, that horses dream. Bechstein holds that the bullfinch dreams, and gives a case where the dream took on the character of a nightmare, and the bird fell from its perch, and four great authorities say that dreaming becomes so vivid as to lead to somnambulism. Guer gives a case of somnambulistic watch dog which prowled in search of imaginary strangers or fowls, and exhibited toward them a whole series of pantomimic actions, including barking. Dryden says: "The little birds in dreams the songs repeat."

SHREWD IDEA IN POLITICS

Pictures of Presidential Candidates on Letter Heads Was a Popular Thing in 1840.

Back in the early days of the republic it was considered a fine idea to decorate paper with the portraits of presidential candidates. In this way the letter writer showed not only his preference, but tried to influence his correspondents for his candidate, remarks the New York Sun. A fine example of this sort of political propaganda was unearthed recently in New York. It dates back to 1840, when William Henry Harrison was running for president on the Whig ticket against Martin Van Buren, Democrat.

The letterhead shows the two sides of the gold medal awarded by congress to General Harrison for his services in the War of 1812. The picture to the left shows a medallion portrait of General Harrison, while the one at the right depicts the Goddess of Liberty, armed with a spear, placing a wreath of laurel on an Indian deity. This latter was intended as a compliment to the general for his success in fighting against the British and Indians.

Under the pictures of the two sides of the medal is a copy of the resolution of congress conferring the medals on General Harrison and Isaac Shelby, "late governor of Kentucky."

Improvised Gun Has Kick.

The Burma government forbids the natives to have guns in their possession, and prohibits trading in arrows and ammunition. But the native's ingenuity enables him to get around this. He will find a piece of ashpole some where, fit a rude stock to it and a crude primer and hammer, and will use safety matches in lieu of powder. He cuts off the heads of about two boxes of matches and puts them into the improvised barrel. He then rams his shot home and is ready for business.

And let me tell you, if you never tried to shoot with such a gun, don't ever do so. Why, an express rifle is about as kickless as a .22 caliber Flobert compared with this improvised shotgun! I tried shooting one once upon a time and the thing almost kicked my shoulder off.—National Geographic Bulletin.

Getting Rid of a Knot.

It is often a difficult business to get rid of knots, especially if these are of long standing. By following the plan indicated it is a simple matter to free the hardest knots, whether these be in straps, harness, rope, cord or anything of a similar nature. As a first step place the knot on some hard surface and give it a good hammering on all sides with a mallet or a thick piece of wood. Now boil up a little water with soap in it sufficient to make rather a cloudy solution. Then soak the knot for two or three minutes in the liquid. At the end of this time it will be found that it can be quite easily untied, often enough with the fingers. The loosening can be done with some sharp implement.

Profitable Companionship.

Among the most curious and interesting of natural phenomena are those pertaining to the mutual relationships of common organisms. Two plants, two animals, or a plant and an animal, may live together for their mutual benefit. Very often one of the partners gets food for the combination, while the other receives protection. This is the arrangement that subsists between tropical plants and certain species of ants which live and feed in their hollow stems, and in return drive away other insects that would do damage.

Real Success.

"Uncle George, what is success in life?" asked the small boy.
"Uncle George—It's gettin' 'ther folk to think as highly o' you as you think o' yourself.—London Bightly.

EDITORIAL

We hope the ladies will not wait until the last moment to register as voters for the coming presidential election. Daily sessions are being held during office hours at City Hall, besides the local opportunities in each village. Registration ceases Oct. 13th.

It is far from pleasant to be pilloried before the whole city, with one's motives misrepresented and one's acts misconstrued, but if the editor has in any way helped to prevent such low down politics in the future, it may have been well worth while.

Now that the political situation in this city has been cleaned up, let's forget and forgive.

"And pity 'tis, 'tis true."

WHEN IN DANGER OF FIRE

Walk, but Don't Run, in Burning Building or in Business Frenzy
—Keep Cool.

When some one shouts "Fire!" in a theater those most likely to be trampled down are those who start a wild stampede. Those who keep their heads and act rationally stand better chance of escaping injury," remarks Forbes Magazine. The cry of "Fire!" was recently raised in the business world and started a stampede in many quarters. Now, it cannot be doubted that the war time frenzied boom has reached its zenith and that prices are moving downward. It remains to be seen, however, whether it was wise to attempt to force goods on the market at greatly reduced prices and to cancel orders for fresh supplies on the assumption that producers would also cut their prices drastically in a mad effort to get from under. It is worth noting that woolen, shoe, silk, and certain other manufacturers promptly curtailed operations, thus refusing to gamble to the limit in futures. If production be curtailed on all sides, then some merchants may find that they overplayed the cancellation game. Goods cannot be produced for some little time at any tremendously lower cost than formerly because it takes time for raw materials, labor, taxes and other expenses to fall drastically.

The advice prominently printed on New York theater programs is: "In case of fire walk to the nearest exit. Don't run."

This advice might be worth heeding by the business community at this moment.

RECOGNIZES VALUE OF PEAT

Its Use for Commercial Purposes is Becoming More Understood Throughout the World.

Peat is extensively used as fuel in northern Europe and as fertilizer in the United States. In Europe gas, charcoal, coke and a number of valuable by-products are produced from it.

Owing to the scarcity of raw materials in Europe, peat and peat moss are employed also as substitutes for absorbent cotton in the preparation of surgical dressings, for wool and for cotton and woolen cloth. In the United States peat is utilized chiefly as fertilizer filler, as stable litter and as an absorbent for the uncrystallized residues of beet and cane sugar refineries in the manufacture of stock feed.

Peat has long been used in fertilizing the soil, having been either applied as a direct fertilizer or used as a filler for commercial fertilizer. Analysis of the peats of the United States show an average nitrogen content of about 2 per cent, a proportion somewhat higher than that found in some commercial fertilizers.

The value of peat in soil fertilization is found in its nitrogen content and in the beneficial mechanical effect it produces upon certain lands. Black, thoroughly decomposed peats are most satisfactory for fertilizer, as such peats are generally heavier and more compact and contain more nitrogen and less fibrous material than the brown types.

Volcano Is a Lighthouse.

The city of San Salvador, capital of the republic of Salvador, may be called a city of earthquakes, for it has seen disasters as a result of many eruptions, and even today the many volcanoes that surround the little city which has been shattered so many times again threaten it. Rumbblings and grumbblings are heard coming, it is supposed, from the Izalo volcano.

This cinder-covered peak, nearly 5,000 feet high, has gradually built itself up from what was a level plain at the base of the San Ana volcano. It has long periods of inactivity, throwing up clouds of smoke and steam in great puffs, and at times belching flames. Sometimes a flashing effect can be seen far out at sea, and the volcano has become known along the coast as the lighthouse of Central America.—Detroit News.

The Rubber-Tired Goral.

Among the strange animals that came under the observation of Mr. Roy Chapman Andrews, who conducted an expedition into farther China under the auspices of the American Museum of Natural History, was the goral, a mountain goat of extraordinary ability.

I have seen a goral, says the explorer, run at full speed down the face of a cliff that appeared to be almost perpendicular. The dogs did not venture to follow it. As the animal landed on a projecting rock, it would bounce off as if made of rubber and leap eight or ten feet to a narrow ledge that did not seem large enough to support a rabbit. — Youth's Companion.

Deer Climb Up Ladders.

The three miles of concrete-lined flume which brings water to the Cherry creek power house on the Hetch Hetchy project lies in a territory abounding in deer. When water was first turned into the flume there was a good deal of trouble with deer which got into it and could not get out unaided. As many as thirty to forty deer have been taken out of the flume in a single month. To relieve this condition deer ladders made of planks were built in the flume line at intervals. The ladders extend below the water as well as above, so that the deer can find a footing on which to climb out. Since the ladders were put in there has been no further trouble with the deer.

BUSY DOLLARS

are not those that are hiding in the bureau drawer or even those which are being carried about in the pocket. The busy ones are those which are out at work. They toil without effort but they do produce. This bank simply directs the dollar on its way. This bank makes no profit for itself—it simply takes a few dollars of yours and a few here and there from others, puts them all together and sets them to work. The owners of the dollars receive the benefit in dividends.

McCORMICK-JOHNSON

A wedding of great interest took place last Friday when Miss Ruth H. Johnson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward C. Johnson of Mr. Vernon Street, Newtonville, became the bride of Lieut. Arthur B. McCormick, son of Dr. Cornelius J. McCormick of Waltham. The ceremony was performed at one o'clock at the rectory of St. Mary's Church, Waltham, by Rev. James A. Baxter, pastor of the church.

The bride looked charming in a gown of all-over lace over baronette satin, her veil being caught with orange blossoms and she carried a bouquet of bride roses.

The maid of honor, Miss Dorothy Fairbrother of West Newton, was attractively gowned in a pink and lavender organdie and she carried a bouquet of Ophelia Queens roses. The best man was Dr. Fraim of Waltham, and the ushers were Messrs. D. A. Johnson of Boston, J. W. Johnson of Winch, Newtonville, E. C. Johnson of Cambridge, brothers of the bride.

After the ceremony a reception was held at the home of the bride. In the receiving line besides the bride and groom were the father and mother of the bride and the father and sister of the groom.

The house was beautifully decorated with chrysanthemums, hydrangeas, palms, Ophelia roses and maiden-hair fern.

After a wedding trip to the White Mountains, Lieut. and Mrs. McCormick will reside at Camp Devens, where Lieut. McCormick is stationed as a member of the Dental Corps, Regular Army.

Lieut. McCormick is a graduate of Waltham High School, Harvard College, class of 1909 and Harvard Dental School, class of 1914. When the United States entered the late war he applied for a commission and was certified as a 1st lieutenant in the Reserve Corps. He was called to duty in Sept., 1917, and reported to Camp Lee, Va., where he was assigned to duty with the 3rd division. He sailed for France with his outfit on April 2, 1918 and upon his arrival on French soil he was transferred to the 7th Machine Gun Battalion, Regular Army. He was wounded in action, July 15, during the Chateau Thierry offensive and spent the next three months in an army hospital. In February, 1919, he was promoted to captain, which rank he held when he was discharged in April, 1919. Lieut. McCormick was reappointed a short time ago 1st lieutenant in the regular army.

Mrs. McCormick attended the Waltham School for Nurses and was actively engaged, during the war, in relief work.

STATE ARMORY CLOSED

Owing to the slowness with which recruits have joined the new National Guard that is in process of formation, the State Armories in Newton, Attleboro and Milford have been ordered closed by Adj. Gen. Jesse F. Stevens. The batteries and companies which have been assigned to those cities have been transferred elsewhere, and the armories will be used for storage purposes or surplus equipment.

Speaking of the armories that have been closed, Gen. Stevens said that they will not be available for dances and social purposes, as the State intends to use them as arsenals and for the storage of surplus equipment and stores. There is at this time no provision in the law for establishing additional National Guard units, so in all probability these three communities will be without military representation.

The ceremony took place in the music room under an arch of beautifully tinted hydrangeas, at eight o'clock, and was performed by Rev. Frederick H. Page, pastor of the First Congregational Church of Waltham.

The bride wore a gown of white bridal satin, trimmed with Duchess lace, with veil of tulle banded with pearls and caught up with orange blossoms and carried a bouquet of bridal roses with shower of sweet peas. She was given in marriage by her father.

Miss Mildred Dorothy Smith, her sole attendant was in a gown of hand embroidered and beaded flesh color georgette crepe and carried Ophelia roses.

Mr. Winthrop P. Smith of Newton Centre was the best man and Dr. Roy B. Stevens of Waltham and Mr. Frederick J. Asbell of Newton Centre were the ushers.

Just before the ceremony a splendid tenor solo "Because" was sung by Mr. Winthrop P. Smith accompanied by Miss Gladys Armstrong of Newton Highlands. Miss Armstrong also played the wedding march from Lohengrin.

The house was beautifully decorated, the living room with mountain ash and the dining table in pink crepe paper with centre piece of pink asters and lighted by a large silver candelabra.

A well attended reception followed the ceremony, Mr. and Mrs. Parker being assisted in receiving their friends by Mr. B. T. Parker, father of the bride and Mrs. Charles S. Parker, mother of the groom.

Guests were present from Waltham, where the bride resided up to a year ago, Melrose, Walpole, Cambridge, Medford, Newton, New York city and Briarcliff Manor, the home of the groom.

HEALTH COMMITTEE

A meeting of the Health Committee was held on Friday, September 10, 1920, at 4.30 P. M. in the office of the Welfare Bureau. Present: Mrs. E. P. Brown, Mrs. George Auryansen, Miss Mable Bragg, Miss Gertrude Herrick, Miss Sara Schlechter, Mrs. Jeanette Williams, Mrs. M. E. Seaver, Dr. Irving Fisher, Rev. Mellyar Lichter, and Mrs. C. A. Hull. Mr. Kendrick, Chairman, was unavoidably detained. Mrs. Hull, Secretary of the Welfare Bureau, presided.

Reports of the work for the summer were read by Miss Gertrude Herrick, worker for the Baby and Nutrition Clinics at the Stearns School (the summer school) continued through the summer. Sixty new babies were enrolled in the Baby Clinic. Nutrition Clinic was started with Dr. George F. Bowers, who volunteered his services. Twenty-nine children were enrolled. Miss Herrick made 242 calls to interest the mothers and to follow up cases needing special instruction. Milk was provided by Welfare Bureau for special families.

Miss Mary Higgins, special worker in the summer school, weighed and measured each child, keeping statistics carefully. This we felt was important as these children came from all the Newtons. Milk was taken at the school children brought their money and milk was ordered with an allowance so children who could not bring money, when recommended by Health workers, could have a share. About 90 children was the daily average. Grade A milk was used and sold at a nominal cost of 3c per glass. There was a refund from sale of milk of $30.93. Miss Higgins dressed a doll and named her the Milk Fairy and this was placed each day in the room taking the most milk. This contest aroused interest and enthusiasm among the children. A Health Play was given at the end of the season; health songs were sung and the Health Slogan recited. One mother remarked to a neighbor as the picture of the group was being taken, "I knew milk was good, but I learned a lot about it this morning."

Mr. Hermann, Playground Supervisor, had asked for an extra Mothercraft worker for the summer on the playgrounds. Mrs. Jeanette Williams was employed and she reported the forming of classes, teaching care of baby—bathing, dressing, bed making, making of baby clothing. While groups were gathered together, health talks were given. Mrs. Williams had for this work a portable equipment of doll (baby size), bed-basket, bathtub, scales, and layette. A demonstration was given in Boston at an exhibit at Horticultural Hall, and Mrs. Williams took one of the Newton girls in for this special work. Mrs. Williams, as did Miss Early, both spoke of the great need for dental care. They both agreed that at least nine-tenths of the children needed this care and that it seemed such a mistake that the Dental Clinic could not be carried on during the summer.

Miss Agnes Early and Mrs. Estelle Seaver did the health work on the Playgrounds. The work began by distributing flyers asking the children to enroll in the Health Game. Each child entering was weighed and measured and the following week given the Health Tag, with name, age, height, weight, and number of pounds they should weigh. Rules of the game were printed on the back of the tag; the children enrolling wore tags with great pride—in all about 1,700 tags were distributed. Group and individual talks were given and cleanliness of body and mind was stressed. Health stories and health games added interest. Games were made of cards with pictures of right kinds of food pasted on and lettering was done by children. This game was played in the manner of Authors, and in the making and playing valuable lessons were learned. The variety of diet was simply taught. There was an encouraging report of increased usage of milk, cocoa, green vegetables, and cereals.

Health Slides in story, from the State Department of Health, were shown by courtesy of the manager of the moving picture house at Newton Upper Falls. A Health pageant was given under the direction of Miss Bell. The mothers helped with the costumes, and this was made a time for special health talks. The children in the pageant were transported to seven different playgrounds where the pageant was given. Final flyers were given out telling the date on which the health teacher would be on each playground for the final weighing. It would be impossible to measure how much the work amounted to; it was carried on wholly with the spontaneous play idea—the only practical playground method.

In summing up the work of the summer—we have co-operated with the School Department in its Health Work so that the children are going back to school interested and more alert to the Health Game than if there had been an interim of 10 weeks without any instruction.

FRANCE AND HER HISTORY

"Every man has two countries, his own and France." We Americans feel deeply the force of these words, since our independence was won by the timely aid of France. We are bound to her by an indissoluble tie.

The history of France is largely the history of modern civilization. Much of the best in the culture of Greece and Rome has flowed through French channels to the rest of the world. On the fair fields of France have been fought many of the world's bloodiest battles for liberty. Lovers of France wish to know about the great events and the people that have made France a nation of indomitable courage, unflinching patriotism and lofty ideals; of Joan of Arc; the rebirth of learning; the development of art and literature.

Political histories alone do not describe sufficiently the French people, their temperament, their customs, and their outlook on life. If it is true that the character of the individual is strengthened and purified by sorrow and trial, then it must hold a thousandfold more true of a race.

The history of France is glorious because it has been a constant struggle for liberty, truth and beauty, and it was never more glorious than it is today.

The foregoing is the introduction to a reading course arranged by the United States Bureau of Education. This course is one of a number of such reading courses intended to stimulate good reading and this particular course to give a better understanding of the development of the country and its people.

PORTER-CALMAN

A very pretty wedding took place at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Wesley Glidden last week Thursday evening, when the marriage of Mrs. Glidden's brother took place. The ceremony took place at 8 o'clock when Miss Olive Calman of Newton Centre and Harry Porter of Newton Upper Falls were united in marriage. Dr. F. H. Page officiating. The bride was charmingly gowned in white satin and carried a shower bouquet of bridal roses. She was attended by Miss Pearl Porter, a sister of the groom as bridesmaid, and Mahlon C. Hale was best man.

Immediately after the ceremony a reception was held. The house was very prettily decorated with evergreen and yellow tea roses, the color scheme being green and yellow with touches of white here and there. Guests were present from Cambridge, Somerville, Waverley, Newton, and Roxbury. The young couple were the recipients of many costly and beautiful gifts, among them a silver service set, the gift of the employees of the Standard Oil Co. where the groom is employed. After a short wedding trip, Mr. and Mrs. Porter will be at home to their friends at 976 Main street, Waltham.

A BIG DIFFERENCE

(From the Sun and the New York Herald)

There is a mighty difference in the measure of culpability of a cheap, sharp little ward politician attempting to mislead the public by distortion and misrepresentation and a like distortion and misrepresentation to a Presidential candidate.

No one places any confidence in the professional ward politician. He may do or say anything to carry a point and little importance attaches to it. The reason is that men do not look in his direction for character, and startling utterances without character do not make a ripple in the community.

But the Presidential candidate, the actual nominee of a great party, stands out with us as a great figure, a of superb dignity, to whom little acts, small petty acts, the acts of the sharp little ward politician in matters political, would be abhorrent and impossible.

Because of this ideal of the man selected by his party for the first office in the land, because of this ideal which mirrors the composite of our Presidents from Washington to Wilson, it is shocking to see Mr. Cox descend to demagogic levels in his fight for election.

In what he has said of Republican campaign funds—the brazen, blatant way he has said it has written him down as a person wholly unfit to be President of these United States; has written him down as a man ready to delude and mislead that he may gain advantage over his opponent in the Presidential race; has written him down as indifferent to facts and to the verities of the situation; has written him down as a sharp little man without bigness of soul, bigness of vision or appreciation of the great role he is playing as the nominee of a great political party for President of the United States.

The facts as disclosed before the Kenyon campaign committee annihilate the Cox charges of the Republican corruption fund; the facts show that the money so far received by the Republican campaign committee is only a trifle over a million dollars; and getting it in small contributions, as Mr. Hayes hopes to do, is not big with promise for even the necessary amount to run a national political campaign.

No one knows better the falsity of the "slush fund" charges he has been making than Governor Cox himself; no one knows better than he that the quota figures of the drive artist mean little in truth; no one knows better than he, a shrewd business man, that it isn't within the bounds of possibility to raise fifteen millions of dollars in small contributions for campaign purposes; no one knows better than he that the attitude of the whole country in the matter of campaign contributions for both parties has always been "Let New York Pay," and knowing this his slush fund accusations were downright dishonest.

ALLEN SCHOOL

Allen Military School candidates will report on the opening day of school next Thursday when Edward Brawley, the new coach, will take charge. Brawley has coached at New Haven High for the past two seasons after a notable athletic career at Medford High and Holy Cross. Quarterback Alexander Powell will lead the Allen eleven.

PLYMOUTH THEATRE—Thousands of Theatregoers who are familiar with Barney Bernard's great character creation, "Abe Potash," will be particularly interested in the announcement that Mr. Bernard is appearing in Boston as a star in a new play, at the Plymouth Theatre. This is Mr. Bernard's first stellar vehicle.

The new play is a comedy in three acts, entitled "His Honor, Abe Potash," and it is the work of Montague Glass and Jules Eckert Goodman. Mr. Glass is internationally famous as the creator of "Potash and Perlmutter," and as co-author of the three famous plays in that series. The setting is a small town in the State of New York, and the role enacted by Mr. Bernard is that of a Jewish merchant in moderate circumstances who finds himself drawn into the maelstrom of local politics. The eccentricities of character; the wit; the wisdom and the quaint philosophy of "Abe" Potash, together with his amusing reactions, demonstrate to the audience what a facile and versatile artist Mr. Bernard is.

GIVE CREDIT TO PHOENICIANS

Scientists Believe That Race Erected the Immense Monoliths Found in Various Places.

Giant monoliths standing strangely alone in many places on the globe when discovered by intrepid explorers and adventurers during the recent centuries, are being referred to as the greatest mysteries of human history by archeologists, who are now trying to determine what race built them. They are monstrous pieces of rude sculpture. They are built of terrifying stone blocks, some weighing as much as 250 tons.

In many districts where the great memorials stand there are no stones of such size to be found, and consequently they must have been transported from places far away. The most famous of them are the cromlechs in England. Others are found in western France, northern Germany, in Denmark, Africa, Madagascar, Asia, from Mt. Sinai and the Caucasus to India; and among the most wonderful and mysterious of all are those found on lonely Easter Island in the Pacific ocean. M. Levistre, a French archeologist, believes they were erected by the Phoenicians, as most of them have been found near rivers. Some students are inclined to believe the Phoenicians reached America by the lost Atlantis, a legendary continent that now is sunken somewhere in the Atlantic. A footprint, the Phoenician mark of death, has been found carved in many, while a coiled snake, another mark of these navigators also is found.

"GHEE" MUCH USED IN EAST

Concentrated Form of Butter Fat Employed in Preparation of Almost All Dishes.

Ghee is briefly described as clarified butter. Cow's or buffalo's milk is submitted to a process of churning and boiling which yields a concentrated form of butter fat considered to be entirely free from curd, whey or water. This product keeps better than ordinary butter, but has a taste not usually appreciated by Europeans. Although commonly associated with the diet of the British Indian, ghee is used as well throughout the Red Sea district by the Arabs, Somalis, British Indians, and other native elements of the population. In a minor way ghee is used medicinally and ceremonially; but its principal use is in the preparation of food, and no native meal in this part of the world is truly relished unless ghee is generously used in some form or other. It is worked into the dough for native bread, and the bread is fried in ghee; or if ordinary bread is used the pieces broken off to be eaten are first dipped into a cup or vessel of hot ghee. It is used in the preparation of all meat dishes, and of many vegetable dishes. Some natives, particularly the Arabs, boil it with milk and drink the mixture.

The Beard in History.

The beard, considered a sign of manhood, was stroked for the first time in Paradise by Adam, if tradition is to be believed, and has had a strange part in the world's history of vanity and fashion ever since. History says the kings of Persia plaited their beards with golden thread, and that the winged bulls of Assyria also had beards. Saladin's son, Turkish historians say, wept for fear when he saw the shaven envoys of the Crusaders.

Razors made of flint and oyster shell were used in prehistoric times when man gave way to the first demands of vanity. The greatest benefactor of barbers in the world's history was Alexander the Great, who shaved himself to preserve his youth, and had his army shaved to prevent the enemy seizing their beards. He set a fashion that was followed by the Greeks, the philosophers by profession alone being excepted. This custom adopted by him has come down through the centuries.

Pearl Poachers.

To see the pearl fisher at work there is no need to go to the South seas. In the first fine days of June he may be found by burn or loch in a dozen parts of Scotland, says a correspondent. He is usually of the tinker class, and his outfit is of the simplest—a water telescope made of wood and a bit of common glass, and a cleft stick to pull up the mussels, in any one of which he may find a small fortune. These mussel-pearls from the Ythan and Teith and other Scottish streams fetch good prices; one was sold not long ago for fully $250. Pearls are found in Canada mussels also, some of them of considerable value. But in Canada there is little or no private ownership of waters, so that our pearl fishers run no risk, as do the Scots, of being arrested for poaching. —Montreal Herald.

Ostrich Telephoning.

When the eggs on the ostrich farms in California are on the point of hatching, a curious tapping of the shell may be heard. This the keepers call "telephoning." The sound is caused by the chicks inside the eggs endeavoring to break out. Those which cannot easily emerge are assisted by the mother bird, which will sometimes break an egg from which the telephoning is heard by pecking it carefully, and will then add the chick to get out.

At the Pasadena farm the sight of a boy riding an ostrich as he would a pony may sometimes be seen.

NO LANGUAGE QUITE PURE

Words Expressing New Ideas and New Things Are Passed From Nation to Nation.

If by "a pure language" is meant one that does not contain words adopted from another language, then there are none among civilized nations. A language is not something made to order, and that once made ends there so far as development is concerned. A language grows in many ways. Take modern English for example. It differs considerably from the English of the time of Queen Elizabeth, and it is so different from the language spoken in England at the time of the Norman conquest that could one of those old Saxons come back he would not understand us and we would not understand him. And yet the language he spoke is the basis of modern English. Since the time of the Saxons there has been great growth. The Normans brought in French, and scholars since then have brought in thousands of words derived from Latin and Greek. These are English words today, but the roots from which they sprang are to be found in other and in many cases in older languages. It is because of this that the English vocabulary is so extensive and the language so expressive.

Italian, Spanish and French are largely derived from Latin, which was the language of ancient Rome, and for centuries Rome was the ruler of continental Europe. And the Latins borrowed from the still older Greek.

A living language is always growing. For example, science is introducing new words to express new ideas and to name new things.

TRACING HISTORY OF BED

Many Varieties Have Been Used, Not All of Them Conducive to Healthful Sleep.

Iron beds were first made for ordinary use a couple of hundred years ago, and gradually people saw the advantages of this metal bed, until nowadays they are almost universally in use. The Romans used rough framework beds, interlaced with thongs, although, of course, the idea was much improved upon in the beds of some of the emperors, ornamented with jewels. After the thong-and-framework bed came the first idea of a mattress, in the shape of the "chest bed." This was a kind of shallow box stuffed with dry moss or feathers, and although it must have been comfortable, it must, at the same time, have been extremely insanitary. Later on came the big four-poster canopy bedsteads. These pieces of "sleeping furniture" were hung with curtains which did little else but collect dust and keep away fresh air. One had to be wealthy to sleep at all comfortably in those days, for although there were plenty of vermin about, there was no effective insect-killer. So when the bed of a rich man became infested, he moved to another of his houses, and let the vermin die of starvation. The poor man, with only one house, merely grinned and bore it—or, rather, them.

Inventor of the Letter-Box.

The inventor of the letter-box was Anthony Trollope, the novelist, who was a surveyor of the post office, in England, from 1841 to his retirement from the service in 1867. One sure way of arousing Trollope's ire was to suggest that he neglected his post office work for the sake of his novels. He took, as a matter of fact, an intense pride in his official work, or, as he put it, he had a passion for letters. In his autobiography he enumerated various benefits for which the public had cause to be grateful to him. First came the arrangement by which the people living in little villages could buy postage stamps; secondly, the free and early rural delivery, and the putting up of pillar or letter-collecting boxes. Of that accommodation he says: "In the streets and ways of England I was the originator, having, however, got the authority for the erection of the first at St. Heller, in Jersey."

Caves Always of Interest.

None of the peculiar formations of the earth are more interesting than caves, and many are the adventures that have been had by the explorers of these often mysterious caverns. The very word "cave" seems to have a strong attraction for everybody. Some of the best and most interesting stories have been written about adventures in caves, so they have always been well advertised on library shelves. And then we must remember that caves were the only homes of many people who lived in the undiscovered parts of the world thousands of years ago, and this in itself adds much historical interest to these natural tunnels under the surface of the earth.

Historic Building.

In the older part of the city of Kingston, Canada, is a small frame house which was occupied by Governor Simcoe in 1792-93 immediately after his arrival in Canada. Here he composed the proclamation calling the first parliament of Upper Canada (now Ontario) to meet in the summer at Newark (now Niagara). In that parliament he not only laid the ground-work of government but planned liberally for religious and educational work. The small "government house" has been modernized a bit by a cheap porch, but is still primitive as well as eloquent in historic interest. —Christian Science Monitor.

HAD GENIUS FOR INVENTION

Man Who Began Life as a Prairie Sheep Herder Made Most Remarkable Record.

It is probable that Walter Turner was the world's most prolific inventor. Starting life as a shepherd on a prairie sheep ranch in the far West he knew nothing of the mechanics of railway engineering. One day, however, while tending his sheep on the prairie in the neighborhood of a railway, Turner came to where the ruins of a train were scattered, and among the fragments he picked up as a curiosity a vital part of the Westinghouse brake. This he was allowed to carry away. During his lonely life on the prairie he would ponder over the mechanism of this brake. His chance came when, having failed as a sheep farmer, he got a job as a wheel tapper on the railway, ultimately being promoted to the engine shops. A series of inventions, improving brakes patented by the company, led to his further advancement. Mr. Westinghouse, who took him into his works, finally made him the head of the engineering department. Westinghouse patented two hundred inventions, but the shepherd from the prairies patented four hundred. Westinghouse made an air-brake that would control fifty railway carriages; Turner improved it till it would control a hundred. When he died it was said that the value of the shepherd's inventions to the world was over thirty-five million dollars in gold.

NEXT JOB IS WHAT COUNTS

Good Thing to Forget What One Has Done, and Look Forward to Something Else.

James J. Hill, who possessed a phenomenal memory, said it is easy to remember things you are interested in.

What to do, therefore, is to discern what things are useful, what things one ought to be interested in, and then forget the others.

That sounds easy, but it isn't easy, as we all know. However, if we try, we may accomplish something. If we don't, we won't.

Let's see, therefore, what are some of the things we ought to forget.

First, and most important of all, forget that brilliant record you made at school or that wonderful sale you made which caused all the boys to talk, or that remarkable piece of work you did which won your raise of pay and promotion.

Forget the big things you did yesterday or last year.

Forget all about the time you topped the list and were made a fuss over.

Forget that you are (in your own eyes) a wonder, a world beater.

Water that has gone over the mill-wheel can grind no more corn.

Forget what you have already done and address all your mind and strength and talent to the next job. —Forbes Magazine (New York).

When Thunder Roars.

When caught in a thunderstorm, don't rush for any shelter.

Remember that any tall, isolated object, such as a tree or a flagstaff, or even a tall building, is liable to attract lightning, and for that reason should be avoided.

If trees are chosen as shelters during a storm, select a group in preference to one standing by itself, and avoid the highest.

Never run to escape the rain, as a flash is likely to be diverted to the vicinity of the air thus set in rapid motion.

In a house, keep away from open windows—it is best to shut them—and fireplaces.

It is safer to be soaked by the rain than dry under an umbrella; wet clothes will be chosen by the lightning in preference to the wearer, and the wearer in preference to his dry clothes.

The Calling of Wild Geese.

There are certain bird notes which strike strange chords, whose vibrations are lost in a mist of dreams. I remember a little runaway boy who stood in a clover field in a gray twilight and heard the clanging calls of wild geese shouting down from midsky. Frightened, he ran home a vast distance—at least the width of two fields. As he ran there seemed to come back to him the memory of a forgotten dream, if it were a dream, in which he lay in another land on a chill hillside. Overhead in the darkness passed a burst of triumphant music and the strong singing of voices not of this earth. From that day the trumpet notes of the wild geese bring back through the fog of the drifting years that same dream to him who heard them first in that far away, long ago clover field.

Wonderful Balances.

It was the Italian physician Salvioni who devised a microbalance of such extreme delicacy that it clearly demonstrates the loss of weight of musk by volatilization. Thus the invisible perfume floating off in the air is indirectly weighed. The essential part of the apparatus is a very thin thread of glass fixed at one end and extended horizontally. The microscopical objects to be weighed are placed on the glass thread near its free end and the amount of flexure produced is observed with the microscope magnifying 100 diameters. A note weighing one one-thousandth of a milligram perceptibly bends the thread.

Barcelona Once Great Seaport.

Until 1492 Barcelona was the New York of the Mediterranean. Its position in the northeastern coast of Spain, actually at about the same latitude as New York city, relatively is to the Mediterranean world what the western city is to Atlantic trade routes. Columbus' voyage was considered a bit of impertinence on the part of the Castilian government to upset the balance of trade in favor of cities in western and southern Spain.
